DICTATOR TO RULE FRANCE

Tears For France

Their country surrendered, defeated, their loved ones slain or maimed, women of France, some weeping, pray before the memorial to the dead at Bordeaux, after Germany's armistice terms were accepted by France. During this "dark hour," all of France prayed for their country . . . that it some day may return to be the great republic it was.

BRITISH GIVE AIR BLOW FOR BLOW

LONDON, July 8 (AP)—Britain claimed the upper hand over Nazi air raiders today and declared her fliers were matching blow for blow as waves of German planes still poured over England.

Several persons were believed to have been killed and some damage was caused in towns of northeast, southeast and southwest England as the Germans continued the air forays from which the British have had but one day of respite since June 18.

A home security ministry communique said R. A. F. planes brought down two of the German raiders.

One of the forays, on a southwest town, was made by a "gliding" bomber which flew several miles with its engines shut off and arrived over the town unheard.

WHOLE FAMILY KILLED

New information added an entire family of five to the toll of dead in a west England town last night. All were killed by one bomb.

Four other families, taking shelter indoors, were buried under their cavedin homes when bombs fell in the heart of a residential area.

But the air ministry said Royal Air Force planes, in daylight raids on Germany yesterday, shot down a Messerschmitt fighter in flames and wrecked a big four-engined airplane on the ground.

Besides destroying the big German plane in a raid on Eschwege, the air ministry said, British fliers scored a direct hit on a runway and are believed to have caused "extensive damage" to grounded planes.

Attacked by five Messerschmites, it added, a British bomber raiding German-occupied northern France shot down one in a burst of gunfire and escaped to sea.

HIGHER GERMAN LOSS

German assertions of British losses in the air battle over the British channel yesterday were scoffed at in authoritative circles as "just another case of Nazi multiplication by 10."

The Nazi high command communique reported 10 British Spitfires shot down over the Channel as part of 14 British air losses to three for Germany yesterday.—Editor's Note.

"Again a German loss of three fighters and a bomber, British losses were, in fact, one only—the second fighter machine lost in the defense of Britain since war began," these sources retorted.

The "bag" of German planes attacking hte British Isles, they added, as "112 machines certain and possibly 25 others damaged so badly they are believed never to have reached home.

DROP 100 FIRE BOMBS

To this, apparently, was added another bomber today. Witnesses

Mexico Election Snarled as Toll Of Death Mounts

MEXICO CITY, July 8 (AP)—Riotous disorders which accompanied Mexico's presidential elections yesterday were estimated today to have taken between 50 and 100 lives and reports or widespread irregularities threatened to complicate the task of determining the outcome of the voting.

An unofficial count showed at least 30 persons dead in Mexico City alone, while scores—perhaps hundreds—were reported wounded during pitched battles which surged through the streets of the capital.

Some reports from the provinces indicated that the total injured might be in the thousands.

2 U. S. STUDENTS WOUNDED

Two American students lay gravely wounded in a hospital today from bullets which struck them down during one of the numerous clashes.

Another youth from the United States was slightly wounded and two others narrowly escaped injury.

Those seriously hurt were Edward J. Mallen, Jr., of Evanston, Wyoming, and Leonard Durso, 18-year-old Georgetown University student, of Union City, N. J.

Hospital authorities said Mallen, who received a pistol wound in the stomach, and Durso, who was struck in the left side by a rifle bullet, had improved slightly during the night, but they were described as still "very ill."

Ivan Hasslocher, son of Paulo Hasslocher, commercial attache of the Brazilian embassy in Washington, and one of three Georgetown undergraduates who was with Durso when he was wounded, suffered a slight flesh wound from a ricocheting bullet.

Parkman Clancey of Tacoma Park, Md., and Francis E. Maloney, Jr., Washington, D. C., were grazed by bullets that cut their clothing.

The Georgetown studeints all had been studying at the summer session of Mexico's National University here. Mallen, formerly resident of Davenport, Ia., was a summer student at a business college in the capital.

Both Gen. Manuel Avila Camacho, Administration candidate, and his Independent rival, Gen. Juan Andreu Almazan, issued statements claiming overwhelming victory.

CANVASS THURSDAY

The actual canvass of returns, however, will not be made until Thursday and the official result will not be announced by Congress until September.

The government made no comment about the outcome of the election, but deplored "bloody incidents," commented significantly on reports of election law violations and said they would be punished.

There were no official estimates on the number of casualties and unofficial figures varied greatly. General Almazan said his reports indicated that "100 or more" lives had been lost. Other estimates placed the figure in the region of 50.

Mexico City itself was the scene of the worst rioting.

Violent disorders broke out before the polls opened at 9 a. m., and by midday battles were raging in a half-dozen different sections of the city, with police and soldiers resorting to firearms in an attempt to end the fighting.

DICTATOR ROLE MAPPED FOR PETAIN IN FRANCE

GENEVA, July 8 (AP)—Reports from France during the past few days were interpreted today to indicate that by Wednesday or Thursday the parliament, meeting at Vichy, will have given the government of Premier Marshal Henri Philippe Petain powers almost as absolute as those wielded by the heads of the totalitarian states which defeated France.

Travelers from portions of the country unoccupied by German troops describe the French public and many of its Republican leaders as "dazed by defeat" and scarcely interested in the proceedings at Vichy.

A dispatch from Vichy said the French press described the new constitution to be drafted for France as "corporative," a term Fascists apply to the Italian government, and quoted Vice-Premier Pierre Laval as declaring it would be permanent rather than temporary.

Reports by persons present at government meetings at Bordeaux and Vichy describe Petain, who was France's first ambassador to the Spanish nationalist government, as "tremendously impressed" by Generalissimo Francisco Franco's plans for Spain.

The censored press of unoccupied France carried reports that Petain's government was "only transitory" and would make way for a new regime with Petain as "chief of state" like Franco.

A dispatch from Vichy to Le Petit Dauphinois of Grenoble forecast the resignation of French President Albert Lebrun and his replacement by Petain who, it said, would "only accept the title of executive power."

A triumvirate of former Premier Pierre Laval, General Maxime Weygand and Arlen Marquet, former Minister of Labor and Mayor of Bordeaux, would dominate the government under Petain's titular direction, this report said.

They said Petain, when discussing France's post-war problems with his aides, requently used examples from the Spanish recon-

WAR BULLETINS

TOKYO, July 8 (AP by radio)—A government spokesman said the Tokyo foreign office had received unconfirmed reports that the French government was contemplating a declaration of war on Great Britain, Domei, Japanese news agency, reported today. Fearing British and French clashes in the Far East, the Japanese government must take precautionary measures, the spokesman said.

LONDON, July 8 (AP)—The French embassy in London still has not been advised by the French government that diplomatic relations with Great Britain have been severed, the diplomatic correspondent for Reuter's (British news agency) said today. A source close to the foreign office said diplomatic relations still exist "at this moment," but indicated that this situation might be changed any time.

Voice Teacher Held In Island Slaying

OAK BLUFFS, July 8—In Edgartown courtroom, filled with still startled Martha's Vineyard summerites, 54-year-old R. Huntington Rice, tall, distinguished appearing elocution teacher, was held today for the sex slaying of Mrs. Clara M. Smith, 70, Dorchester widow.

Dist.-Atty. William C. Crossley, who has been on the island almost continuously since the elderly Christian Science reader was found murdered in her bed a week ago yesterday, obtained a continuance until July 18.

The precise and cultured teacher, bachelor and acting head of the Rice School of the Spoken Word, in the dormitory of which the slaying occurred, still protested his innocence of the first-degree murder charge.

OTHER SUSPECTS HELD

At the arraignment, Dist. Atty. Crossley moved for dismissing of a concealed weapon charge here against Elmer Keyes of Roxbury, picked up during the investigation and held on a theft charge.

The Crossley move was made so that Medway police and state troopers might take Keyes for questioning in connection with a series of burglaries in that area.

Wareham police also had placed a detainer against Keyes in connection with burglaries.

Meanwhile, Harold Tracy, 37, alleged ex-convict, is held for investigation as a bandit suspect said to be wanted in Kentucky for a jewelry robbery.

SECRET ABOUT MOTIVE

The arrest of R. Huntington Rice, whose home is in New York, was almost like a bombshell explosion on Martha's Vineyard. Brother of the president of the Rice School of the Spoken Word, where Mrs. Smith had attempted to improve her diction, he was acting as head of the school.

Crossley declined to say whether he had established a motive for the murder of Mrs. Smith, whose lifeless body, with the skull crushed, was found in a bloodstained room a week ago Sunday.

The district attorney said he took action after grilling Rice on three separate occasions.

"His evident attempts to throw us off the track caused suspicion to point to him at the outset," Crossley charged.

GIRL STUDENTS SLEPT

The murder, characterized by police as one of the most brutal in Massachusetts' crime history, occurred while a score of women and girl students were asleep in the same dormitory, unaware of the crime until it was discovered in the morning.

Officials described the accused as a gray-haired man, six feet two inches tall and weighing 200

INJURED IN WINDHAM CRASH

Believed by police to be the same men who crashed a stolen car in Windham, N. H., seriously injuring Lucille Jordan (here), former beauty queen, two bandits were the object of a New England-wide search today after engaging in a gun battle with State Trooper Vincent Power

2 BANDITS HUNTED AFTER GUN BATTLE

WORCESTER, July 8—Two bandits, one of whom is believed wounded and hiding in the woods near West Boylston, were the objects of a New England-wide police search today.

The pair disappeared after a furious running gun battle with State Trooper Vincent F. Power of the Holden barracks, a motorcycle officer, who chased their stolen auto and fired numerous shots travelling 81 miles an hour.

After crashing into a tree in West Boylston, the men separated. One left a trail of blood as he ran into the woods. His companion is thought to have stolen another car and fled toward Rhode Island.

Later, the car was spotted in Marlboro and chased briefly by police of that town, but the machine disappeared in the heavy Sunday traffic. Only one occupant was seen by the police, strengthening the belief that the second gunman, perhaps seriously wounded, remained hidden in woods northeast of Worcester.

New Hampshire State Policeman Lt. John Lockwood radioed that the pair are evidently the same who wrecked the machine in Windham, as they were traced by bloodstains as far as North Salem.

The injured girls, Lucille Jordan, 21, former Laconia, N. H., winter carnival queen, and Carrie Cutting, 20, also of Laconia, told police they met the two men only two weeks ago and were riding with them to Canobie Lake when the accident happened. Police were unable to learn the names of the men.

The car in which the quartet were riding was stolen from F. L. Putnam of Newton while he was vacationing at Old Orchard Beach, Me. Two guns were found in the wreckage.

Fair Weather To Continue

Continued fair weather was forecast for today after a weekend which saw thousands jam resorts for a taste of the finest summer weather of the season.

With temperatures reaching 85 degrees, yet tempered by a gentle westerly wind, vacationists thronged seashore, lake and mountain resorts to capacity.

All transportation systems were heavily patronized and highways carried a steady stream of traffic during the weekend exodus and return.

1ST BRITISH WAR CHILDREN IN U. S.

NEW YORK, July 8 (AP)—Two hundred and sixty British child war refugees, a number of them babies in arms, arrived today on the British liner Samaria—the second such refugee ship to reach New York within 24 hours—as a nation-wide campaign to provide haven for such children was speeded up.

Foramation of "the national child refugee committee," to organize local committees and coordinate the activities of various groups, was announced shortly before the ship's arrival.

The children, ranging in age from a few weeks to 12, were among about 1000 passengers on the Cunard-White Star liner. They followed 71 youngsters who arrived yesterday on the British liner Scythia.

The national child refuge committee, under the leadership of Marshall Field and the honorary chairmanship of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, was formed as an extension of the U. S. committee for the care of European children.

Leaders in many fields were asked to serve on the committee in a joint telegram from Mrs. Roosevelt and Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the Chase National Bank.

The line barred from the pier before the Samaria docked all except persons with special passes. There was no explanation of the new restrictions.

At that conference it will be determined what action, if any, will be taken as a result of the special commission's report.

The legislators have the power to institute impeachment proceedings if it is felt that the evidence warrants in the case of any public official.

HAMMOND ESTATE $2,750,000

SALEM, June 8—The late John Hays Hammond, Gloucester engineer, mining expert and inventor, left an estate in excess of $2,750,000, including personal property totalling $2,626,940.10 and real estate valued at $136,400, according to an inventory filed here today in Essex probate court.

Hammond died June 8, 1936. He left the bulk of his fortune to three sons and a daughter. They are John Hays Hammond, Jr., of Gloucester; Harris Hammond of Bordentown, N. J.; Richard P. Hammond of New York City, and Natalie Hammond, also of New York.

Today's inventory showed Hammond's personal property as consisting of $2,267,172.20 in securities, $214,461.46 in banks, and $55,623.39 in accounts receivable.

The remainder of the personal property was in personal effects.

Tobin Aide, 3 Others Tried for Contempt

With a police lieutenant and one of Mayor Tobin's secretaries among the four defendants, the so-called Berlandi contempt case went to trial today in municipal court before Chief Justice Putnam.

Defendants are Lieut. Harold Watkins of police headquarters; Angelo Berlandi, assistant secretary in the mayor's office; his brother, Alfred, now serving three to four years in State Prison for Middlesex county burglaries, and Carmen Giordano of the North End.

It was Giordano's alleged attempt, under the Berlandis' persuasion, to "take the rap" for Alfred Berlandi in a handbag theft case that resulted in the contempt charges against the four, for an alleged conspiracy to obstruct justice.

COURTROOM CROWDED

The courtroom was crowded as Asst. Dist. Atty. Edward M. Sullivan reviewed the case in his opening. Many details were revealed publicly for the first time.

Alfred Berlandi was in the prisoner's cage, closely watched by two State Prison guards. Former Cong. Joseph F. O'Connell, with his son, Joseph F. O'Connell, Jr., was seated in a court officer's box within the enclosure.

At the outset of the trial, Judge Putnam denied a motion by Atty. John Hanigan, counsel for Lieut. Watkins, that the chief justice disqualify himself from sitting in the case, on the ground that the case originated before him.

"EVERYTHING FIXED"

The chief justice also denied a request, by Atty. Michael Carcchia, counsel for Giordano, that he entertain a motion for a change of plea. Giordano originally pleaded guilty to the contempt charge.

In his opening, Asst. Dist.-Atty. Sullivan charged that Angelo Berlandi called the father of Giordano, and a sister, Mrs. Lucy Rizzo of Medford, to the mayor's office and said of the handbag case:

"Listen! Don't worry! Everything is all fixed. I'm going to get you the best lawyer."

Sullivan recounted the events concerning the handbag theft from the wife of a Lynn dentist on March 17 of this year in Haverhill st., near the Nort hStation, by two men.

VISITED BY BROTHER

Alfred Berlandi, said the prosecutor, was arrested and taken to North End station, where he was booked on suspicion of larceny, and at 2 a. m. was identified and accused by two witnesses.

A few minutes after he was brought in, his brother Angelo, said the assistant district attorney, appeared at the station, made inquiries and was told by Officer Kiley that it was "an open and shut case" against Alfred.

Angelo talked to his brother in the cell and on his way out, said Sullivan, asked Lieut. Hoban:

"Can't you let the kid go?"

"No, this is a serious case," the official replied, according to Sullivan.

The same morning, Alfred was taken by Officer Hazen Chalmers to police headquarters for routine questioning. Prosecutor Sullivan said of the case from here:

"The Commonwealth contends that Lieut. Watkins entered the conspiracy at this point. Alfred was not put in a lineup but was questioned by Watkins in the presence of a stenographer, George Godfrey. Only 11 questions were asked by Watkins.

"The Commonwealth contends that this interrogation was utterly pointless; that not a single inquiry was made as to the subject matter of his arrest.

"Lieut. Watkins says that he turned to Officer Chalmers and suggested that Officer Chalmers ask for a continuance of the case. Chalmers refused."

2 Slug and Rob Malden Grocer

Two bandits, one a nattily attired six-footer in a light summer suit, held up and robbed a Malden grocery store proprietor today, overpowering him in a hallway as he went for his mail.

The victim, Harry Leshner, 48, of Salem st., Malden, narrowly missed serious injury as the six-foot thug swung a gun butt at his head.

He dodged and the blow struck him on the shoulder. Both bandits then grappled with him. They took a billfold, containing $50, and fled.

Leshner's store is in Bryant st. His office has an entrance in Cross st., and it was through the Cross st. hallway he went for his mail.

There were several clerks and nine customers in the store at the time of the holdup. Leshner was so overcome he had to go home and receive medical attention.

Japan Protests 'Insult' by U. S.

SHANGHAI, July 8 (AP)—A Japanese army spokesman accused United States marines in the Shanghai defense area today of "a grave insult to the Japanese army" in their treatment of 15 Japanese plain-clothes gendarmes arrested in the zone yesterday.

The spokesman asserted the gendarmes were humiliated, clubbed and otherwise maltreated.

"Japanese military authorities," he said, "will file a strong protest with American authorities over this case."

The gendarmes, who were armed, were arrested after they were discovered in the zone in violation of the agreement whereby they are not to enter it without consent of military authorities.

Britain's Film Stars In U.S. Called to War

HOLLYWOOD, July 8 (INS)—Britain's call to arms echoed in Hollywood today as British residents of the film colony prepared to leave for England to take up arms in defense of their homeland. The call came from the British embassy in Washington, where a statement was issued requesting stage and screen stars between the ages of 18 and 31 to return to England as soon as possible.

VIRGINIA FIELD
Ready to Aid England

Those near the military age limit were asked to "continue their professions" pending further instructions. Most of the British-born actors in Hollywood are well over the 31-year limit.

Richard Greene, dark-haired star who has become a familiar figure on the American screen, is subject to the call. Recently he volunteered his services, but was advised to stay here until further orders.

"I have not yet received other orders, but I am ready to go home any time," he was quoted as saying.

Greene's name has been romantically linked with Virginia Field, another British-born film star, who has been reported ready to give up her film career if she could "help England."

Other younger actors in the British colony here include Richard Ainley, Hughie Green and Robert Coote, who will be within the call.

OTHERS VOLUNTEER

Others on the volunteer rolls but over the 31-year limit include Herbert Marshall, Nigel Bruce, Alan Mowbray, Basil Rathbone, Ronald Colman, Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Brian Aherne, John Loder and many more. Most of them are veterans of the World War.

Several of the top-ranking Britishers, including Cary Grant, Ray Milland, Errol Flynn and Louis Hayward, have taken out citizenship papers in this country. Grant said he would not seek final papers until the war was over.

"I don't want people in England to think I'm deserting at a time like this," he explained, "though I still want to become an American citizen."

OLIVIER IS READY

Laurence Olivier and Vivien Leigh, young stars who have enjoyed phenomenal screen success in this country during the past year volunteered their services to their native country several months ago but were told to wait.

Basil Rathbone said his 23-year-old son, Rodion, has been in Chicago several weeks awaiting acceptance of his application to volunteer with the Canadian forces.

AID FOR BRITONS

HANOVER, N. H., July 8—President Ernest Martin Hopkins of Dartmouth College today said the college's dormitories and other facilities will be used as a distributing center for British schoolboys coming to this country to attend American schools for duration of the war.

If your iceman is wearing spats, carrying a cane and has a brand new marcel these days it's because he's all slicked up for the handsomest iceman contest to be held next Sunday at Norumbega park.

Scores of icemen—or ice refrigeration service experts, as they now prefer to be called—will participate in the contest. The winner will represent the Hub in the finals of the national contest to be held in October during the convention of the National Ass'n of Ice Industries at New Orleans.

Qualifications on which the aspirants will be judged are: (1) charming manner; (2) pleasing good looks; (3) the necessary amount of brawn.

The winner will be required to possess the tact and sales force of an international statesman, the male beauty of a screen idol, and the muscular development of a championship athlete.

Rewards awaiting the successful candidate who wins the national contest include a trip to Hollywood and a screen test at the studio of the Paramount Pictures. A massive gold trophy and a pair of hand-carved silver ice-tongs will be presented to the winner of the Boston elimination contest.

Blast Hurls Skipper In Sea, Yacht Burns

ROCKPORT, July 8—An oil stove explosion aboard the $60,000 motor launch Venture, which had anchored here today, destroyed the vessel and hurled its captain, David Upton of So. Portland, Me., 40 feet into the sea.

Upton, burned about hands and face, was picked up by a passing fishing boat and was treated for shock.

Rockport police said the Venture was owned by James Annacone, Boston automobile dealer, and arrived here from Ipswich with the owner, Capt. Upton and Nick Tedesco of Endicott st., Boston.

Upton told police Annacone and Tedesco had gone ashore and that he was preparing coffee on the stove when it exploded.

Towed to a Rockport wharf, the Venture was called a total loss after firemen fought the flames for an hour.

N.Y. Bomb Clues Are Uncovered

NEW YORK, July 8 (AP)—Two new slender clues in the World's Fair Fourth of July bombing were reported today as new bomb threats prompted police to throw extra guards around power stations and gas storage plants of the Consolidated Edison Co.

Detailed descriptions of the new findings were not learned, but it was said that police technicians had determined that metal in the bomb was an unusual iron alloy.

The other discovery was that a piece of fiber, in which the dynamite was wrapped, was marked by part of a numeral, pointing to the possibility that the source of the explosive might be traced. The bombing killed two detectives.

DEVENS LIFE TOUGH ON SOCIALITES

FT. DEVENS, July 8—The sun rose at 5:30 here today, and so did the socialite battalion—but oh, how they ached!

For this battalion, made up of some 300 big names in New England, was discovering the existence of previously unsuspected muscles.

And, rather ironically, it was all the result of activities strictly on the non-military side, softball, swimming and such.

Many of the educators, financiers and professional men indicated they would like to get the bugler alone for a few unofficial moments. Tired, sore muscles at 40 and 50 do not respond quickly to bugle calls at 5:30.

But they were in the army now!

The business men, many from Boston, had asked for it themselves, having paid $42.15 to take orders from army officers for a full month in the interests of national defense.

Today, actual training of the men began. They were scheduled to receive rifles and to take a short march. Long hours of base military instruction also lie ahead. Maj. Clifford G. Kershaw was in command.

During the softball game, new celebrities were discovered, among them James Casner, the catcher, who turned out to be Prof. Casner of the Harvard Law School; umpire-baiter Curtis B. Perryman of Durham, Ct., Harvard Law School graduate; home-run slugger, Lloyd E. Jadan, head football coach at Amherst College, one-time All-American at University of Pittsburgh.

Fort Ethan Allen Training Starts

BURLINGTON, Vt., July 8—Nearly 300 Massachusetts men began army maneuvers here today at Fort Ethan Allen as part of the 1940 citizens' military training.

Nearly 200 were enrolled for field artillery courses, while 100 began cavalry courses. After completion of four years' training, consisting of one month each summer, the men will be eligible for commissions as second lieutenants in the reserve.

VOICE TEACHER HELD

pounds, with large bright eyes, and of impeccable attire.

At the jail in Edgartown, Officer Nathan Mercer, in charge at night, said the prisoner appeared unperturbed.

"He has been very cheerful, in fact, he slept most of the night," Mercer said. He still maintained innocence, Mercer added.

In contrast, other officers reported a telephone call Rice was permitted to make to a woman in New York City, during a recess in police grilling.

"I'm afraid I'm being framed," officers quoted him as saying. "I am suspected of murder. I need help. Please help me."

The district attorney said today the woman whom Rice telephoned was Mrs. Edna L. White of New York's fashionable Central Park West. She is listed as a "religious practitioner," Crossley said.

She is the same woman to whom Rice had sent communications during the past week, officers said. A few hours after Mrs. Smith's body was found, the elocution teacher sent a message which authorities said read in effect:

". . . unable to sleep last night. I am very ill and nervous. Please help me."

Discovery of the murder was made by Miss Pearl Blakeney, 35, of Ocean st., Dorchester, an intimate friend, who had accompanied Mrs. Smith to the school several days before.

Miss Blakeney had gone to her friend's adjoining room to awaken her in preparation for a scheduled holiday trip to Nantucket.

Instead she found a lifeless body on a blood-drenched bed, with more stains on the floor and walls, proof, police later said, of a terrific beating which had preceded the murder.

At the inquest, Crossley announced an autopsy showed evidence of a criminal attack. Besides the skull fracture, he said, marks were found on the elderly widow's throat, but no evidence of strangulation.

Rice, the district attorney said, had been assisting recently in the administrative end of the school as a result of the illness of his brother, Philetch Rice. As an elocution teacher, Mrs. Smith came under his immediate supervision.

Mrs. Smith's late husband was employed by Hugh Nawn, Dorchester contractor, until his death a year ago. She lived at 6 Regina rd., Dorchester. A son, Clarence L. Smith, 55, lives in Seymour st., Roslindale.

Willkie, McNary Meet, Plan Campaign

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie's first visit to Washington as the Republican presidential nominee provided an opportunity today for several congressmen to urge that his campaign be shaped around a "hands-off-Europe" foreign policy.

Legislators who have been critical of the administration's program to aid the Allies said they would urge Willkie to take a firm "non-intervention" stand in his political speeches.

Among those who expressed the desire to confer with him after his arrival by plane in mid-afternoon were Senators Vandenberg (R.) of Michigan, Nye (R.) of North Dakota and Thomas (R.) of Idaho. All belong to the Senate group which has insisted that the Roosevelt administration is endangering this country's peace in its efforts to help Great Britain.

Willkie's object in coming here was to confer for the first time with Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, the vice presidential nominee. They will be guests tonight at an informal dinner to which all Republican nominees of Congress have been invited.

McNary told reporters he had no plans for Willkie's visit other than to discuss any subjects that the presidential nominee might bring up. McNary said he thought that since Willkie has had little rest since the Philadelphia convention, political conferences ought to be held to a minimum during his visit here.

This did not fit in, however, with plans made by other Republican leaders to obtain the nominee's ear before he maps his speaking campaign.

Senator Thomas of Idaho, a member of the resolutions committee which drafted the Republican platform, said he hoped to confer with Willkie about his views on foreign policy and on the reciprocal trade program.

Thomas exhibited a statement issued by Willkie June 18 which the senator said had been presented to the resolutions committee. He added it had convinced him that Willkie's views of keeping out of the European war were similar to his own. In that statement Willkie declared:

"We shall not serve the cause of democracy and human freedom by becoming involved in the present war."

JIM KNOWS THE ANSWER—Following his two-hour conference (above) with President Roosevelt at Hyde Park, N. Y., Postmaster-General James A. Farley emerged with the answer to the third term question . . . but, said he, "I can't give it." However, we'll all know soon.

F. D. TELLS 3D TERM DECISION TO FARLEY

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP)—President Roosevelt shared with James A. Farley today the secret of his third term intentions—but neither would reveal the chief executive's answer to the most baffling political question in a decade.

The rest of the nation may be let in on the solution to the third term puzzle when—and if—the Democratic National Convention insists on drafting Mr. Roosevelt.

Political analysts suggested that, since Mr. Roosevelt had let the third term movement go along a week before the convention without lifting a finger either to check or increase its momentum, he would be unlikely to turn down renomination if it were offered in the form of a call to service during a time of international crisis and efforts to plug in gaps in America's defenses.

ONLY FARLEY KNOWS

Lending emphasis to predictions of some Democratic leaders that the convention would draft the Chief Executive was the fact that 773½ votes were pledged or semi-pledged to Mr. Roosevelt with only the Canal Zone delegation to be heard from. Necessary to nominate: 548 votes.

Farley, the national Democratic chairman, found out what the President proposes to do when the two laid their political cards on the desk in Mr. Roosevelt's library at Hyde Park, N. Y., yesterday.

They talked about the approaching convention, the Democratic platform, and the third term issue.

"I had a very satisfactory talk with the President," Farley said afterward, "and I have full knowledge of his thoughts and what he has in mind."

ALL TRAPS AVOIDED

But any announcement on the third term, or any discussion of the time or place for the announcement, must come from the President, he asserted.

He side-stepped nimbly every trap set for him by reporters who sought some hint of what Mr. Roosevelt had told him.

And he parried with equal skill questions designed to draw him out on the possibility that he might give up his jobs as Democratic chairman and Postmaster General and acquire an interest in the New York Yankee baseball team.

"I'll discuss any future plans I may have with regard to party activities at the Chicago convention," he said.

Hague, Kelly Planning Draft Roosevelt Move

JERSEY CITY, N. J., July 8 (INS)—Reports persisted in this stronghold of Mayor Frank Hague today that Hague and Mayor Edward Kelly of Chicago plan a powerful "draft Roosevelt" campaign at the Democratic national convention next week if the President should decline to seek a third term.

While Hague is a close friend of Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley, who yesterday learned but failed to disclose the President's intentions, he also is a friend of Mayor Kelly, reputed admirer of Hague's go-getting political methods.

The Chicago mayor has been mentioned frequently as Farley's successor to the national chairmanship which Farley, according to reports, is planning to abdicate after the forthcoming Chicago convention.

ARMS FOR 2,000,000 NOW PLAN

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP) — President Roosevelt's coming request for a $5,000,000,000 defense fund was reported reliably today to authorize arms for a second million men.

The new program also contemplates additional facilities for making munitions, so that, in an emergency, full equipment for even larger land forces could be turned out in relatively short order.

Talk of the proposed fund, much the largest of its kind in peacetime, gave impetus to demands for another billion-dollar-a-year increase in taxes to meet defense costs. Senator George (D.) of Georgia predicted the tax boost would be linked with the request for $4,000,000,000 for the army and $1,000,000,000 for the Navy.

ARMS NOW FOR 500,000

In regular and supplemental appropriations voted since the European war explosion in May, Congress already has authorized complete arms and equipment for 500,000 soldiers, and reserves of "critical" weapons for an additional 500,000 men.

The newest preparedness move is expected to make ready for a second million men such arms as rifles, artillery, ammunition and tanks which could not be produced quickly in an emergency.

Some of these munitions presumably would be required even in peace-time should compulsory military training be undertaken. Such a program for training millions of men has been placed on the "must" list by Chairman Sheppard (D.) of Texas, of the Senate Military Committee.

SELECTIVE DRAFT URGED

Some lawmakers said a type of selective draft was needed because voluntarily enlistments had failed to keep up with increases in the Army and Navy already approved by Congress.

They suggested that spokesmen for the war and navy departments may present President Roosevelt's ideas on citizen training when they testify tomorrow before Sheppard's committee.

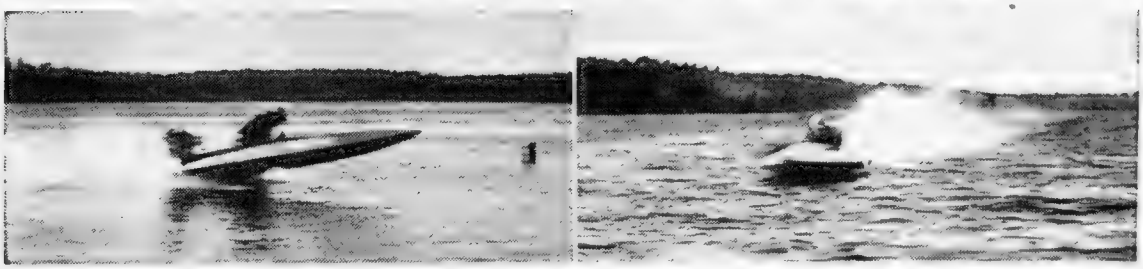
EXTRA SKILL AND EXTRA DARING MADE CLINTON FERGUSON AMERICA'S NO.1 OUTBOARD CHAMPION



BOMBSHELL! That's his name for it. A splinter of mahogany, a bit of fabric, varnish...why, it's nothing but a shell with a motor. But when Clinton Ferguson clamps down the throttle of that motor, you've got the fastest combination in outboarding today. Speed? More than that. Speed plus—plus one man's uncanny ability to wheedle and squeeze just a few extra miles per hour out of four cylinders and a propeller. Yes, it's the extras that win—even in cigarettes.

LEAN, WIRY, 135 pounds of nerve and driving skill. Hunched in that tiny pit—one hand on the wheel, the other on the throttle—he roars across the surface in a frothing skid against time. Half in, half out of the water, Clinton Ferguson never lets up. Turns? He takes them wide open...throws himself around...with a daring equaled only by the extra skill of his steering hand. Boats, drivers—cigarettes—it's the extras that set them apart...like the extra mildness of Camels.

EXTRA MILDNESS
EXTRA COOLNESS

5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

THE "EXTRAS" of costlier, slower-burning tobaccos have made Camels the No. 1 cigarette in the field. And the explanation of these extras in Camels is just as scientific as it is logical. Too-fast burning in a cigarette creates excess heat. Excess heat ruins the delicate elements of mildness and flavor. Slower burning preserves flavor and aroma...naturally gives a cooler smoke. Camels, with their costlier tobaccos, give you extras that you won't find in any other cigarette—even a slower way of burning that means extra smoking per pack. (See panel at right)

Smokers: SAVE THE COST OF THE STATE CIGARETTE TAX

Smokers who live in communities where certain state cigarette taxes are in effect can save the cost of the tax—and, in some instances, more—through smoking Camels. Hitler and Goering Map Blitz on Britain

By PIERRE J. HUSS

International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, July 8—Amid general expectations that Germany's promised blow against England is not far distant, Chancellor Hitler conferred with Field Marshal Goering and other key military advisers today.

Small crowds stood outside watching officials come and go from Hitler's headquarters, anticipating he would soon signal his next move. Authentic sources declared:

"Hitler alone will decide when the moment is ripe for what is going to happen. Naturally he is in consultation with our friends, for which purpose Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano came here."

(A dispatch from Geneva reported that advices from Berlin said the "real object" of Ciano's visit concerned the new anti-British attitude of France, Italian anxiety over Soviet Russian policy in the Balkans and preparations for Italy's role in the expected Italo-German attack upon England.—Editor's note.)

Ciano departed for the German-occupied areas of France, Belgium and Holland. He will return here Wednesday.

It was understood here French military action against England will continue "on a separate plane." Authorities asserted:

"We do not need the French as an ally. We can take care of three Englands single-handed. But Germany has given the French a free hand to avenge their honor."

Meanwhile sinking of 21,500 tons of British merchant ships off Spain and widespread aerial attacks upon objectives in England were announced by the German high command.

England Can't Escape Fate, Says Rome Paper

ROME, July 8 (INS)—"Absolute certainty" of an Italo-German attack on Great Britain was stressed by the newspaper Messaggero today, while the Italian military bulletin recounted air raids on British bases in the Mediterranean.

An assault against the British islands "from all directions" is unavoidable, "whatever length of time is necessary," Messaggero added.

"All damages and punishments of the war will be paid up completely by declared and potential enemies of the axis," the paper said.

60,000 Nazi Soldiers In Spain for Coup

NEW YORK, July 8 (AP)—The British radio said this morning Germany had closed the Franco-Spanish frontier.

The broadcast heard here by the Columbia Broadcasting Co., said 60,000 German soldiers in plain clothes already are in Spain and others have arrived at the Spanish frontier.

VON PAPEN O.K'S RED TURK GRAB

ISTANBUL, July 8 (AP)—Russian Ambassador Alexei Terentiev was reported en route to Moscow today aboard the Black Sea steamer Svanecia following an hour's conference here with Franz von Papen, German ambassador to Turkey.

Informed sources said the two ambassadors discussed demands Russia is expected to make upon Turkey.

In Turkish political circles a note from Russia setting forth these demands was expected shortly after Terentiev reaches Moscow.

Speculation concerned the possibility Russia might ask concessions in the Dardanelles or in the Kars region of the Caucasus which Russia lost in the World War.

Foreign diplomats say they understand Germany, Italy and Russia are working closely together in deciding the attitude toward Turkey, which last fall signed a mutual assistance pact with Britain and France.

Many of these expressed belief Germany was fully supporting Russian demands for an extension of Russian interests. Diplomatic circles expressed belief Italy, although reluctant to see Russia approach the Mediterranean, would have to support Moscow.

Turkey, meanwhile, continued intensive military preparations.

Heavy Toll By Italian Air Raiders

By the Associated Press

ROME, July 8—Week-end operations by the Italian air force resulted in destruction of 17 British planes and damaging bombing raids on airports and troop columns on the African continent, the Fascist high command reported.

Three planes, a communique said, were brought down out of a squadron that attacked the port of Tobruk, Libya.

LONDON on Saturday claimed their planes had bombed Italian warships in Tobruk harbor scoring heavy damage.—Editor's Note.

Of the 14 others, six were wrecked in Italian bombing forays against British North African airdromes, and the others in attacks on airfields in southeastern Egypt, near the Eritrean frontier.

Italian planes also were said to have started fires in the arsenal zone of Britain's Malta naval base and to have hit at motorized columns southeast of Salum, near the Egyptian-Libyan frontier.

Italian troops, meanwhile, were reported to have solidified their gains near Kassala, where last week they occupied a strip of Egypt across the border from Eritrea.

Nazis to Let Paris Stay Up Until 11

PARIS, July 5 (Delayed, by Courier Plane to Berlin) (AP)—Paris' circumspect life since the German occupation—not a single night time incident has occurred—won a reward today in the shifting of the curfew from 10 p. m. until 11 p. m.

Under regulations of the German military governor, cafes have been authorized to extend their closing hour from 9:30 to 10:30. Nobody will be permitted on the streets from 11 p. m. to 5 a. m., except by special permission. Blackout restrictions were ordered applied on a more strict basis.

BRITISH REFUGEES ARRIVE—Unrestrained joy is much in evidence as these British child refugees, the first large group to arrive in New York, wave a greeting from the S. S. Scythia, which brought them from England. The United States committee for the care of European children explained that these evacuees will be taken care of by friends and relatives in America . . . according to previous arrangements.

Jap Demand Is Rejected By Britain

TOKYO, July 8 (AP) Britain has rejected Japan's demands for the closure of the route through British Burma to war supplies for the Chinese government. She asserted such action would be incompatible with her commitments to Burma and India, an authoritative source said tonight.

British Ambassador Sir Robert Leslie Craigie today personally delivered the British reply to Foreign Minister Arita.

Sir Robert was reported to have declared trade between the British crown colony and the Chinese hinterland had been halted and therefore, there was no foundation for Japan's demands.

Arita expressed "deep dissatisfaction" with the British reply, a Japanese informant said, and emphatically stated Japan's views, urging Britain to reconsider.

French Bomb Battleship Hood

VICHY, France, July 8 (AP)—Havas (French news agency) reported today that the British battle cruiser Hood had been hit many times and that two British destroyers had been seriously damaged, perhaps sunk, during the battle with French naval units off Mers El-Kebir, July 3.

Two British planes also were shot down by French fighting planes and coastal batteries, Havas said, quoting an official announcement issued here.

Late War Bulletins

SHANGHAI, July 8 (INS)—Five Japanese battleships and eight cruisers were reported en route to Formosa and Hainan today to reinforce large Japanese naval forces off the British crown colony of Hongkong and off French Indo-China.

COPENHAGEN, July 8 (AP)—King Christian X of Denmark signed a nomination for a new coalition cabinet today, ending ten days of cabinet reshuffling.

LONDON, July 8 (AP)—The first women conductors to replace men on London buses serving country routes were hired today.

ISTANBUL, July 8 (INS)—Forty-two British oil field employes, ousted from Rumania, arrived in Istanbul today, reporting they had "authentic grounds" for believing that King Carol of Rumania eventually will abdicate. They said Germans were taking charge of the Rumanian oil fields.

STOCKHOLM, July 8 (AP, by wireless)—Reports from Copenhagen broadcast by the Stockholm radio said bombs were dropped on Langeland and near Haldersleben, Denmark, today, causing slight damage.

French Admiral Arrested by British

GENEVA, July 8 (AP)—A dispatch from Vichy, France, to the newspaper Le Petit Dauphinois of Grenoble said today that the British arrested French Admiral De Villaine, commanding French warships in British ports, July 3, to prevent organized resistance to seizure of his ships.

Alexandria Routs Raids By Italians

ALEXANDRIA, July 8 (AP)—Enemy bombing planes raided Alexandria for 10 minutes this morning before they were driven off by anti-aircraft fire.

More hostile planes appeared shortly after noon, but met heavy anti-aircraft fire and veered off to sea without dropping bombs.

Italian aircraft attempted to raid the harbor last night but were driven off. No casualties or damage were reported. In a subsequent raid late last night anti-aircraft guns succeeded in bringing down one of the invaders.

British and French warships joined the coastal defense batteries in firing upon the raiders.

Italians Kill 9 In Air Raids on Malta

CAIRO, Egypt, July 8 (AP)—Nine civilians were killed and one was wounded in an Italian air raid over Malta yesterday which was intercepted by British fighters, the headquarters communique of the Royal Air Force announced today. The communique said:

"During an air raid at Malta yesterday our fighters intercepted the enemy and shot down one of their aircraft.

"Nine civilians were killed and one was wounded in the course of the raid.

"The previous night the enemy carried out another raid. Only slight damage was done. One civilian was injured. One enemy aircraft was reported brought down by anti-aircraft fire."

struction after the civil war, almost always adding:

MODEL FOR FRANCE

"But we must have his (Franco's) power."

These reports added that Jose Felix Lequerica, Spanish ambassador to France, recently gave the marshal a full report on Franco's reconstruction plans and post-war laws and decrees, which may be used as a model for France.

It is said that since Petain took office the extremely active semi-Fascist Croix-de-Feu organization of Col. Francois de la Rocque has gained tremendous new strength among army, navy and air force officers.

France's Motto May Change in New Regime

GRENOBLE, France, July 8 (AP)—France's slogan "Liberte, Egalite, Fraternite" (Liberty, Equality, Fraternity) may be replaced in the new constitution being drafted by Premier Petain's government by the words "Travail, Famille, Patri" (Labor, Family, Fatherland).

A dispatch from Vichy, seat of the government, to the newspaper Le Petit Dauphinois today said Vice-Premier Pierre Laval's talks with groups of senators and deputies indicated these three words would be the foundation of the new constitution.

DELADIER AIDES ABSENT

The dispatch said the National Assembly will ask Wednesday for a "brief text" giving Petain and his government all powers for drafting the constitution, with both the Marshal's prestige and his government's life depending on its passage.

Passage appeared assured by a large majority said Le Petit Dauphinois.

Former Premier Edouard Daladier, former Ministers Cesar Campinchi, Yvon Delbos and Paul Bastid and dozens of other deputies who, the dispatch said, "sailed aboard the Massilia," will not be present at the assembly.

Daladier, whose whereabouts are not known publicly, was reported last Friday to be aboard the overdue and missing French liner Massilia.

A broadcast by the German-controlled Brussels radio said Yvon Delbos and Georges Mandel, former French ministers of education and interior, were with Daladier aboard the liner, which left Bordeaux June 16 and was said to have put out to sea again after being refused admission to Casablanca.

VICHY, France, July 8 (INS)—The French government warned Britain today British ships or planes would be fired upon if they approached within 20 miles of the French coast.

This warning and a communique stating French planes carried out a recent attack on Gibraltar formed the French government's reply to British naval attacks in which French war vessels were sunk or seized off Oran, Algeria, last week.

said one of the southeast raiders was last seen dropping toward the sea belching smoke and pursued by British fighters.

About 100 incendiary and 12 explosive bombs were dropped in the early morning raid on a northeast town in which several persons were injured, three houses demolished and eight others damaged.

Latest reports from the southwest town raided said one man was killed and several wounded.

Detailing the air fighting of last night, the air ministry said one Spitfire pilot shot down two Messerschmitt fighters in dog-fights over the channel and attacked three more before returning unscathed to his base.

Another pilot of the same squadron, the announcement said, bagged another Messerschmitt and damaged one which just had shot down a British Hurricane.

Today's attacks followed daylong raids from southwest England to southeast Scotland yesterday, in which at least five persons were killed, seven and possibly eight German planes were shot down and three British fighters lost.

Typical N. E. Family Set To See Fair

"As the sinister meaning of war creeps nearer, our family grows infinitely closer—gratefully MORE American — understanding more clearly that which spurred our own forefathers into the shelter of Salem harbor over three centuries ago.

This is not from an editorial in a Salem paper, nor is it from a brochure on Salem and that ancient town's history.

It is an excerpt from a letter written by a Melrose housewife and mother—the housewife and mother, in fact, of the winning family in the Typical American Family in Massachusetts contest, sponsored by the Boston Evening American-Sunday Advertiser, in co-operation with the New York World's Fair of 1940.

During the week of July 22, the family of Arthur B. Maddison of 25 Norman rd., Melrose, will represent Massachusetts at the World's Fair—a thrilling all-expense-paid vacation with everything free, including transportation, housing on the Fair grounds, meals, entertainment and guides.

GET COMPLETE OUTFITS

Maddison himself—of old Salem stock—will make the trip. So will Mrs. Marion Newhall Maddison, direct descendant of the first white child born in Lynn. So will 17-year-old Barbara, Jackson College sophomore, and 14-year-old Frederick, a Boy Scout.

And, being a Typical American Family, the Maddisons won't count out the third and youngest, bright-eyed David, who is six. As only four members of a family are entitled to make the trip free, the family will have David attend the Fair as an independent, making his base at the home of relatives in New York for the week.

TRAVEL IN STYLE

Before they leave for the trip, the four Maddisons will be completely outfitted by Sears Roebuck and Co., and at the exposition they will live in one of the two new FHA houses constructed on the grounds, with meals and maid service free.

These houses have been completely furnished by Sears Roebuck and Company.

The trip to and from New York and Boston will be made in one of the newest type Ford automobiles, driven by a company chauffeur and with meals furnished en route.

To four other families, World's Fair awards also go—to each a three-day free trip to the Fair, transportation, admission, entertainment and guides included, as well as a sliding scale of cash additions.

THE OTHER PRIZES

The following are winners of the four other World's Fair prizes:

Second Prize: The Morse Family of Middleton—Walter E. Morse, war veteran, Legionnaire and superintendent of the Essex County Industrial Farm there; Mrs. Mildred MacKenzie Morse, wartime Yeoman (F) now of the Legion Auxiliary; Charles Morse, 15; Robert Morse, 11, and Nancy Morse, 9.

Third Prize: The Williamson Family of 725 Belmont st., Brockton—Ralph C. Williamson, dairy engineer; Mrs. Mattie Williamson; daughter Esther, 25, married 10 months ago; 23-year-old Harold, graduate of Annapolis last month and assigned to the aircraft carrier Lexington; 21-year-old Donald, aviation worker, and 13-year-old Lloyd.

Fourth Prize: The Barnes Family, Pond st., South Weymouth—Milton A. Barnes, a Boston salesman, the 18-year-old blonde twins, Doris and Edwina; 16-year-old Milton, Jr., and 13-year-old Pauline.

Fifth Prize: The Bancroft Family of Concord rd., Sudbury Center—Lloyd E. Bancroft, bakery owner, war veteran and Legionnaire, with 20 months overseas; Mrs. Catherine Bancroft, his assistant; Lloyd, Jr., 7; Frederick S., 6, and Patricia Ann, 5.

King's 2 Little Daughters Tap, Swing at Benefit

LONDON, July 8 (INS)—Britain's little royal princesses—Elizabeth and Margaret Rose—emerged in a new role today, as expert warblers and tap dancers.

The young daughters of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth tap danced, sang and gave recitations with evacuee children from London's East Side at a country village to raise money to provide comforts for the crews of British mine sweepers.

Under the eyes of the Queen, they performed at a concert in the village school room.

Princess Elizabeth gave two solo tap dances and a recitation. Princess Margaret Rose tap danced and played the piano and also participated in several sketches in a ballet called "An Apple for the Teacher."

The concluding number of the show also was performed by the princesses, who did a duet tap routine.

An audience of 80 was on hand. Music was provided at the piano by the village school master.

BRITISH EMBASSY STUDIES OFFERS FOR WAR ORPHANS

The great and unanticipated demand for war orphans and refugee children has brought an abundance of consolation to British parents whose first thoughts are for the safety of their sons and daughters.

Because of this knowledge, it is Richard Robinson, representative of the British Children's Overseas Reception Board, more than 30,000 English girls and boys will have arrived in North America by the end of August and more than 50,000 by late fall.

In preparation for the children's arrival, the British embassy in Washington and cooperative agencies are studying offers of homes submitted by American families.

Among these are more than 2700 requests for children sent to the American, Record and Sunday Advertiser by New England men and women.

Lord Lothian, British ambassador to the United States, is giving these requests his personal attention and distributing them among individuals and agencies which will assist the embassy in placing the children.

Hundreds of persons who want war orphans or refugee children either for adoption or for temporary custody have neglected making applications.

All are invited to write this week to the Editor of the American. Every letter will be placed in the hands of the proper officials.

Letters in today's mails say:

NEEDHAM—"My husband and I would like to adopt a war orphan. We will take either boy or girl, although we would prefer the former. Our own little son died four years ago, and we can never again have another child. We are sure we can provide adequately for a little boy, give him good training and an excellent education."

EASTHAMPTON—"My son, three years of age, would like a little brother. A little French, Dutch or Belgian boy between two and five years of age would be most welcome in our home.

"Any mother over here cannot help but be horrified at the thought of those poor little homeless children and I wouldn't feel that I am doing my part if I didn't adopt one of them and learn to love him as I do my three girls and little boy."

ACHUSHNET—"My husband and I have been married 12 years and, although we have always hoped for children, we have not been blessed with any. If we could have one of these little orphans, we would love him with all our hearts and do everything for him that we have so long hoped to do for a son of our own."

SHELBURNE, N. H.—"We would like to adopt a little French or Belgian girl about two years of age. She would have a good American home and all our love."

NEW BEDFORD—"As I see it, Americans have the choice of taking these evacuated children or of leaving them to die in air raids or from actual want. As an Englishman, I know that they are fine children—good, clean and healthy. No parent could fail to love them.

"My wife and I will be pleased to give you our support and will take two boys or two girls. If necessary, we shall return them to their own fathers and mothers at the end of the war. But we'd much rather adopt them."

REVERE—"Please consider this a request for a war orphan or refugee child. My husband and I would be most happy if we could have one or two children from England."

Doodling Is Boon to Mothers

Pause a moment, mothers, and consider Doodles.

It's the new drawing game that is proving a boon to many mothers.

Little Willie, not old enough to entertain himself, insists that mother do it by reading to him hours upon hours during the day.

Mary and Johnny get into a tiff over the jam jar. Harold, who has no playmates of his age, broods in his apartment home on a rainy day.

The attendant noise, pouting and emotional storm leaves mother a tired woman by nightfall.

But now mother has found the counter-irritant — Doodles. Any child can do it, some perhaps with a little parental guidance.

And there's money in it. Each day five winners are awarded $1 each.

Just fill in the lines of the daily Doodle cartoons and send your Doodle—or a dozen of 'em—to the Doodle Editor, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston.

FOR YEARS we have been hearing that the United States Army has the best rifle in all the world, the Garand semi-automatic rifle known to Ordnance as the MI.

"The best rifle in all the world"—a phrase that was a lilting lullaby for our false sense of national security, much like the assurance that our government has the best aviation bomb sight in all the world.

It never occurred to us to wonder or ask just how many of these "best rifles" had actually been provided for the Army, or how many soldiers we had to fire them. Just as it never occurred to us to ask how many of these marvelous bomb sights we had in how many bombers.

We have just finished reading the rather startling answer, contained in a report of a hearing held before the United States Senate Committee on Military Affairs as recently as last May 29.

This hearing was on a bill to provide for adoption of the Johnson semi-automatic rifle as a standard arm of the military and naval forces, a position now held by the Garand MI.

We have no opinion as to the comparative merits of the Garand and Johnson rifles. We leave any such choice in the hands of those qualified and empowered to make it. According to expert testimony both are excellent weapons for the defense of the United States.

But all of us do have an opinion on, and a vital personal interest in, the dire need for the speedy preparation of our country to withstand any and all attacks from outside our borders.

How many Garand rifles have we, how good are those we have, and how speedily are we producing them?

WELL, LET'S LOOK at the record—the record of that hearing before Senate Military Affairs.

Lt. Col. Merritt A. Edson of the United States Marine Corps is testifying:

SENATOR BROOKHART: I would like to ask why the Marine Corps hasn't adopted the MI (Garand).

COLONEL EDSON: We have tested the MI rifle and, at the present status of its development, we have decided not to adopt the MI at this time. I might qualify that; the decision was reached not only on the accuracy of the present piece which we tried and which does not have the new front end, but also because of the functional difficulties which we encountered in the field.

THE CHAIRMAN: In other words, it was put out in the field with combat conditions and did not function, that is, the piece without the new front end?

COLONEL EDSON: Yes. It would not function sufficiently well under conditions encountered in landing operations to warrant its adoption at this time as a satisfactory replacement for the Springfield rifle.

BUT HOW MANY Garand rifles have we? Are they of the type improved since the Marine Corps turned them down? How many are "on order?"

Call Lt. Col. Guy H. Drewry to the stand.

SENATOR CHANDLER: Approximately how many have you?

COLONEL DREWRY: Approximately 41,000 Garand rifles have been produced.

SENATOR CHANDLER: And distributed to the Army?

COLONEL DREWRY: That's right.

SENATOR CHANDLER: How many have you on order?

COLONEL DREWRY: We have a total on order of 169,000.

SENATOR CHANDLER: What is the rate of production at the present time?

COLONEL DREWRY: At the present time the Springfield Armory is producing 200 per day in one shift. They are doubling the shift now and will be up to 400 per day within the next three or four months.

SENATOR CHANDLER: Is that the only place we are making them?

COLONEL DREWRY: No, the Winchester Co. have a contract for 65,000 and they expect by November to have an average production rate of 3000 per month.

SENATOR CHANDLER: Now, how many of the ones that have not been changed are in that approximately 40,000, did you say?

COLONEL DREWRY: We have approximately 40,000, Senator. All of the present production are of that type—we had a lot of components in production when this change was made and which had to be completed. We expect by the middle of June all the rifles coming out of Springfield will be of the new type. All of the rifles manufactured by the Winchester Co. will be of the new type.

So there we have the story.

The United States military has been working on the Garand, off and on, since 1919 and it has finally reached the point where experts refer to it as the best military rifle in the world. But a month ago there were only 41,000 existing in the hands of our Army and all of these were of the unimproved type that the Marine Corps declined to adopt as standard.

The best rifle in the world is of little use if we haven't enough of them in the hands of enough soldiers adequately to defend this country.

RADIO STARS come and go but Kate Smith and Amos 'n' Andy go on forever . . . "Will you campaign to make men wear garters?" writes a feminine client. Ask somebody else, will you lady? I can't throw the first stone on that one. I wear no garters . . . New York newspapers can't seem to agree whether it should be spelled Romania, Rumania or Roumania . . . Has been discovered there are Communists in the Post Office Department. This reminds me I once received a letter from a business man saying when he ordered stamps and stamped envelopes from the Post Office Department they came wrapped in Communist newspapers . . . A popular U. S. Navy song is titled "Meet Me by the Slop Chute in the Old Whangpoo" . . . Resident of St. Paul, Minn., states: "In the Indian language Minnesota means land of the sky blue water."

THERE ARE 1,499,115 more men than women in the United States. Lady, you could show this fancy statistic to your husband and so let him know how fortunate he was to get a woman in a country where there are not enough to go around . . . One ship scuttled in the Panama canal could block the way for some time and make it very difficult for the United States Navy to get from Pacific to Atlantic. Of course, the fact that an Italian ship just the right size to block the canal suddenly turned up at the Panama Canal recently was just a coincidence. Nevertheless, our representatives at the canal viewed this ship's arrival with marked suspicion . . . Know a fellow named Pi-nalp. He is very proud of the fact his name spells the same way from either end . . . In her next picture Ann Sheridan has her face slapped by Jim Cagney. Scenes in which Mr. Cagney slaps or punches a beauteous female seem to be very popular with the ladies. What does this mean? Are we mild mannered, gentle fellows to be reluctantly forced to believe that women prefer cave-men?

JACK GOLDBERG produces all-Negro cast movies. He should produce one called "The Darktown Strutters' Ball." The best all-Negro show, stage or screen, I ever saw was Sissle and Blake's "Shuffle Along" . . . It has been claimed that only big strong females can be successful opera singers. But the pint-size Lily Pons seems to be doing all right. She sang to 19,000 customers in Manhattan's Lewisohn Stadium the other night . . . Ed Garbisch, once a West Point football star and a Washington-Jefferson College football star, played eight years. Well, I played five years of college football myself and that's not so bad for a poor boy from Brooklyn. Mr. Garbisch married the daughter of Walter P. Chrysler, the auto magnate.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt -:- MY DAY

HYDE PARK, July 8 — Early Friday morning we started to drive half way across this state. My husband had a grand time asking everybody where Odessa was, and when the natural response would come—that Odessa was in Russia and on the Black Sea—he would cheerfully remark: "My wife is going there on Friday and will be back Saturday night."

There is an Odessa in New York State in the Finger Lake section. We enjoyed its beautiful location and the historical interest of the old Fortune Inn, where we dined.

A group gathered after dinner, at the invitation of the proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. Ericksen, to ask me questions about the problems of youth, with special reference to the American Youth Congress.

AT THIS MEETING I had expected to talk in a non-partisan way on a non-partisan subject, and then to be asked questions by people who were really anxious to know something about the problems facing young people today.

Rather to my surprise, I found that, while I might have thought in this way, the meeting was to have a political tinge. Our hosts, and I suppose the neighborhood, had not been able to forget that I am a Democrat, and so had provided an eminent Republican, Mr. Mark Sullivan, to speak with me.

Although I have made it a rule never to speak at a bi-partisan meeting, or to enter into debates, I enjoyed this occasion. I was particularly grateful to my delightful opponent because he gave me an opportunity to bring out many things which I would not otherwise have thought of saying.

THE only thing which troubled me was an accusation made by my opponent against the Dies committee. He said that this congressional committee charged with the duty of investigation for the protection of the people of the United States, had been influenced by my attendance at two of their hearings.

It was claimed that the committee had therefore not said as strongly as it might otherwise have, the things in which it really believed.

I can not for a minute entertain the thought that a congressional committee, headed by patriotic Mr. Dies, would put consideration for any woman, no matter to whom she might be married, ahead of duty to the nation as a whole.

We spent Friday night with Miss Flora Rose in her house on the Cornell University campus. It was an inspiration to see her, as it always is.

Our drive back on Saturday was as beautiful as the drive out had been. After the radio program, given in Poughkeepsie Saturday night, we went rather wearily to bed, Sunday was lovely again and the President took us all to church.

IRENE CASTLE TO REVIVE DANCE

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, July 8—John Steinbeck is on his way back to California. He completed the movie he was writing in Mexico, had planned to stay there until the elections when a revolution is expected—but decided that it won't happen . . . Jack Kirkland flew to Hollywood this week and will listen to further negotiations for the movie sale of his "Tobacco Road" . . . Irene Castle will revive the Castle Walk when she appears in summer stock. Her partner will be Alex Fisher of the dance team of Harrison & Fisher . . . W. G. Van Schmus of Radio City Music Hall, was operated upon this week at St. Luke's Hospital.

HEALTH DEPT.: Alice Faye collapsed as she was about to start making the new film, "Down Argentine Way," and was removed, unconscious, to the hospital where an immediate operation was ordered . . . The hospital officials notified Miss Faye's manager about the necessity for an emergency operation. The manager forthwith relayed this information to Bill Koenig, of 20th Century-Fox . . . "What do you mean, operation?" Koenig protested. "You can't operate. Darryl won't stand for it."

ALICE FAYE

SPORTS DEPT.: Oscar Levant tried to induce his friend, Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, to purchase the Brooklyn Dodgers baseball team. Vanderbilt, head of the Belmont racetrack and proprietor of one of the finest racing stables in this country, was reluctant to spread his activities into another field of sport. "What can I do in baseball, Oscar?" he asked . . . "For you it should be swell," Levant assured. "Just imagine—when the slow-footed Phelps hits a single you could put Seabiscuit in to run for him."

SCHOOL DEPT.: When Arthur Hornblow, the producer and husband of Myrna Loy, hired Robert Thorin, the French playwright, he said: "In all our dealings, you talk to me in French, and I'll answer you in English. It will help my French, which I speak fluently, and at the same time you'll be able to learn to speak English quickly" . . . Thorin agreed, and then attended his first story conference. "What do you think?" Hornblow asked him, "but remember—tell me, in French, and I'll answer in English" . . . Thorin liked the story and in French, expressed his unqualified admiration for the plot . . . Hornblow smiled, nodded, and—in English—replied: "You're right. You're absolutely right. I agree with you—it smells."

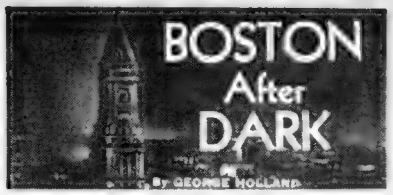
YOUTH DEPT.: William Saroyan sat in a San Francisco tavern and discussed the problems of children in relation to the world's condition . . . "The world never has been a fit place for any child," Saroyan orated. "The only thing that has saved that race has been the heroic efforts of young men and young women who have become fathers and mothers" . . . "You're not married, and you have no children" Saroyan was reminded, "so how can you speak, with authority, about children?" . . . "I speak," Saroyan answered, "because I'm a former child."



MONDAY MORNING MUSINGS: A month from the very day on which Robert Moses Grove found himself the guest of honor at a "consolation dinner," which had begun as a testimonial, the great old lefthander turns in a sparkling bit of pitching . . . It is always a good idea to postpone the obsequies until the date of interment . . . Jack Conway's appointment to Rockingham's official family generated as much enthusiasm as the horse-racing season has produced . . . Another important bit of news might have been forthcoming from the Lou Smith atelier if the racing pioneer's trip to Chicago had worked out satisfactorily . . . Lou received a description of the "picture" at Sportsman's Park, the Chicago half-mile track, which sounded glowing . . . The distant fields weren't green enough on close inspection to interest the Rockingham chief.

MORE MUSINGS: One of the radio chains and the musicians' union are so far from a peace declaration that "substitute programs" are cluttering the local airwaves . . . In many cases, the battle with the musicians is the reason we are hearing so frequently that "The program scheduled to be heard at this time—won't,"—although the announcers make it sound less blunt . . . Fred Cole, the blond youth from Hingham who was so helpful to Artie Shaw when that maestro was broadcasting here a summer ago, disarmed your correspondent Saturday night when we called Fred's station to learn the identity of one of these "substitute programs" . . . We wished to identify—without wasting time until the "sign-off"—a Chicago gentleman, who must have had a local (Chicago) reputation for wit . . . But Fred explained that the lad was a "prairie fire" in the midwest, and was considered as star material . . . If you happen to listen to a Ransom Sherman, please let us know who's wrong—this column (which would not be unusual) or Chicago.

FROM A SOURCE CLOSE TO FORMER GOVERNOR ELY comes a statement of the governor's position in the coming campaign . . . "In stating in your column the former Governor Ely has promised his friend Mr. Smith that he will bolt the Democratic party and support Willkie if President Roosevelt is the nominee,' I am apprehensive that the impression may have been innocently enough distorted," the statement begins.

THEN "GOVERNOR ELY IS A STAUNCH and devoted Democrat and has preached the gospel of Jeffersonian Democracy during his entire career . . . When he broke with his party's nominee in 1936, he did not do so merely because he was piqued and disappointed over the failure of the Democratic party to nominate is friend, Al Smith . . . But on the contrary, it was because he was firmly convinced that the Party had deserted the principles upon which it had been founded.

"IF PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT WERE the nominee and Gov. Ely saw fit once again to withdraw his support from his Party's candidate, it would not be with any personal enjoyment to him, nor would it be because of any feeling on his part of hostility to the President . . . It would be solely because he would be convinced that the traditions of the party against a third term for any President would be shattered and it would mean establishing a dangerous precedent . . .

RAFT, FITZGERALD TOP FILM CAST

By Louella O. Parsons

Geraldine Fitzgerald

HOLLYWOOD, July 8—The persistent gossip that Norma Shearer had tacked George Raft in a company to produce his own pictures and release them through RKO, is apparently without any foundation. Saturday when I was out on the Warner lot they told me that George would start with Byrnie Foy in three weeks on "South of Argentine"—a little tropical number by Barry Trevor.

Not only does that settle Mr. Raft's movie future but it marks the return of Geraldine Fitzgerald, the little Irish girl who took time out to have a baby. She plays the femme lead. Now that the little one is old enough to leave, Geraldine who had a most promising career, is taking up where she left off as a potential star.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: The Ian Hunters are adopting a little English refugee, a child who lost her parents in the war; Maureen O'Hara's heart beat is Will Price, dialogue director on "Gone With the Wind"; MGM insisted on Lana Turner taking a chaperone to Honolulu. Interesting that Richard Cantillion, her attorney, is Bentley Ryan's uncle. Ryan is Greg Bautzer's law partner; Allan Curtis and Ilona Massey will do an altar march as soon as his divorce from Priscilla Lawson is final.

JOHN BARRYMORE was never once late on the set and was such a good boy that "The Great Profile" is finished five days ahead of schedule. Jimmy Stewart and Henry Fonda stole the show at Houston. Jimmy played the accordion and did sleight of hand tricks and Hank gave out with a cornet solo; Charlie Chaplin reciting the last speech in his movie and making his audience cry it is so poignant; Cesar Romero is well enough to sit in the sun; Anatole Litvak with Kay Francis and the Lewis Milestones at the Little Hungary; Bruce Cabot and Gloria Blondell a surprising twosome at the Seven Seas.

YOU MUST admit that Joe Pasternak has original ideas on casting. Just listen to this for a minute: He is negotiating with Fred Astaire, the screen's top dancer, to star in "Special Delivery"- but true to Pasternak's ideas it won't be Fred alone. On the contrary, he will share honors with Gloria Jean and Baby Sandy.

TWO-MINUTE STORY

DORIS CRANE was dead. Jack, her husband looked steadily down at her as she lay in the pale grey casket.

Twenty-five years, he thought, we have lived together and now it is ended.

Doris had come to the trim white house as a bride and here she and Jack had settled down to a quiet married existence.

Doris joined the usual community organizations and Jack commuted daily to the office. Evenings, they played cards with some of the neighbors or enjoyed a quiet evening reading at home.

In time two daughters were born to them. The girls grew up to be pretty like their Daddy's people and nice mannered from Doris' careful training.

All in all, they were a most satisfactory family in this suburban town.

BUT TODAY the family was broken. The neighbors came in to express their kindly sympathy.

"Stoic," one said of Jack who greeted them all with friendly tolerance.

"Such an ideal couple," remarked another. "Jack is just as brave as Doris would have wanted him to be."

FINALLY it was all over and Jack was alone. Going to the room he had shared so long with Doris he walked to his bureau and picked up his wife's picture.

Looking straight into her eyes he said: "Together, always together for 25 years—the girls and I always doing your bidding—ruling us all as a queen from her throne—25 years and now I am free. You'll never know, Doris, how I hated you!"

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

SOME DAY, when you are tired of talking war or taxes, try these lines on yourself — if you've the nerve!

How much of me, I wonder,
Is Myself,
My own, true Self—
And how much
Just a heap
Of borrowings;
Tag ends of this 'n' that
Which other lives
Have dropped
Along the way

These thoughts
I claim to think.
How many are my own?
How often do I ever
"Think things through,"
Retaining only that
Which bears
The honest imprint
Of my private mint?
Or, like a magpie,
Do I snatch
At anything that snares
My roving fancy?

These feelings
Which I claim
To be my own—
This hate or love,
Envy, delight, despair,
Preference or prejudice,
How many of them,
Root in my own heart—
How many of them
Rage in my own blood?
Or are they,
Like so many
Of my thoughts,
Mere gatherings—
Echoes of things I saw,
Or words I heard,
In childhood days.

And when, at last,
This long play-day is done,
And through the darkness,
Comes the call for home,
Will I then slip
From all this frippery,
As children slip
From out the clutter
Of their borrowed clothes,
And stand, quite naked,
Stripped of all
The trash and pretence—
Free to be myself—
My true, essential Self
But if I do...
How much, I wonder,
Will there really be
Of my own Self?
Have I a Self, at all,
Or am I only clothes?

Some day, when you are tired
Of talking war or taxes,
Try these lines on yourself—
If you've the nerve!

Hollywood Paragraphs

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, July 8—Katie Hepburn started work on "Philadelphia Story" Friday and everyone was amazed at the way the lady has changed her tune. Not only was everything sweetness and light with La Hepburn saying how happy she is to make another movie—but she said she never disliked Hollywood and couldn't understand what all the shooting was about.

She told the startled M G M press department that the only reason she didn't meet the press was that she was too busy making tests and that her sets wouldn't be closed to visiting scribes. Wonder how long this will last or am I too cynical?

John Howard goes into the Hepburn movie and mark my words, she will be the straw that breaks the camel's back as far as his Paramount contract is concerned. He is made twice as many pictures off the lot as on and consequently is eager to freelance when his contract terminates in two months.

Well, you will see Alberto come the fall in a hot tropical musical called "They Met in Argentine" which will star the little Irish lass, Maureen O'Hara and feature Gene Raymond Rogers and Buz composers delivery have been engaged to write the music and Lu Brock the producer leaves in a few days to huddle with the Rogers and Hart on New York.

'Road to Ruin' Gayety Feature

Currently featured on the Gayety screen is "The Road to Ruin," modern morality story.

Helen Foster is cast as the pretty heroine whose primrose path dallying first brings her the hectic pleasures she desired and then finds her discarded, disillusioned and despairing.

The action takes one to moonlight swim parties, to gambling palaces to rhumba rendezvous and to countless other pleasure-haunts where the claxon laughter gets to have a brassy sound if you listen closely.

On the same bill is "Man With Nine Lives," Columbia horror thriller with Boris Karloff, Roger Pryor and Jo Ann Sayers. It stacks up as one of the best of this type of picture with Nick Grinde's clever direction injecting plenty of dramatic suspense. The story hinges on the "frozen sleep" medical theory, and Karloff's Dr. Kravall is one of his most sinister characterizations.

HELEN FOSTER stars in "The Road to Ruin," modern morality film now at the Gayety.

Beacon's Program

Beacon's new picture is "Mad Youth," featuring Betty Compson Mary Ainslee, Betty Atkinson and the champion of jitterbugs of America in a film drama exposing the matrimonial agency racket. On the same bill is "Young In Heart."

"Reefer Madness," now in its fourth week at the Globe Theater, looks to parallel the long-run record of "Ecstasy."

PREHISTORIC SPECTACLE AT KEITH MEMORIAL THURSDAY

Carole Landis Headlines Cast

The prehistoric spectacle, "One Million B. C.," is due at the Keith-Memorial on Thursday with Carole ("I want to be admired for my art – not my looks") Landis, Victor Mature and Lon Chaney, Jr.

"Saps at Sea," latest Laurel and Hardy full-length comedy, is billed as the companion feature. A new Walt Disney cartoon, "Tug Boat Mickey," with Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck and Goofy, will be an added attraction.

The story of "One Million B. C." concerns the Shell and the Rock tribes, prehistoric peoples, who live in constant fear of attack by giant dinosaurs, wooly mammoths, musk oxen, terrifying reptiles and other horror-inspiring monsters of 1,000,000 B. C.

The two hostile tribes eventually undertake to build a new civilization on a peaceful basis after the Rock people suffer an earthquake and the Shell tribe are attacked by a gargantuan dinosaur.

The shapely Miss Landis, who declined to be the "Ping" girl, successor to the "Oomph" girl, because she wants to get places in Hollywood by her acting not her figure, plays Loana, the Golden One, of the Shell people, who rescues Tumak, young Rock hunter played by Mature, from death in her own country. Lon Chaney, Jr., is said to remind one of his father in the role of Akhoba, aged chief of the Rocks.

CAROLE LANDIS shares top honors with Victor Mature and Lon Chaney, Jr., in the prehistoric spectacle, "One Million B. C.," coming Thursday to the Keith Memorial screen.

Orrin Tucker, Kay Kyser for Boston

A promised RKO Boston attraction for next month is Orrin Tucker and his orchestra, together with Bonnie Baker and a big show. Another scheduled booking for this house is Glenn Miller and his orchestra, to be followed by Kay Kyser and other top-flight screen, stage and radio celebrities.

Smart Set Functions

By BETTY ALDEN

BREEZY TIDINGS from the South Shore . . . At last the cold wintry blasts which swept over the sand dunes have abated, leaving a breath of summer in the air and swarms of summer visitors to enjoy the pleasant round of resort activities . . .

There is always something doing around the Duxbury Yacht Club where Mrs. Thomas Lanman and her two daughters, Mary and Trudy, can be found almost every morning, hoisting sails and preparing for a day's racing in the bay . . . Mrs. John Purvis and her children, Stacey and Rosey, are also ardent sailing fans, and Mrs. Albert Lincoln spends many summer hours in her boat . . .

Even in the midst of all their summer pleasures the younger set have their serious duties . . . Virginia and Peggy Floyd are conducting a life saving class at the club, and have a large roster of pupils . . .

The alarm clock rings bright and early in the homes of golfers Frances Stebbins, Mrs. Charles Eaton and Katharine Francke, who play an early morning game on the Duxbury golf course . . . Peggy Farnsworth, Mrs. Ellison Ferris and Mrs. Augustus Soule are also counted among Duxbury's leading feminine golf fans . . .

Seen playing tennis in Duxbury . . . Frances Kelley and her brand new fiance, Morison Bump, in a foursome with Arthur Beane and Mary Elizabeth Clark . . .

BLONDE and attractive Leslie Morgan wore this becoming frock of gray silk printed with Mayflower pink figures, as she welcomed her sister debs at a tea at her mother's Beacon st. home. Daughter of Mrs. Laurence Morgan, she will spend part of the summer in Boston, later going to New Hampshire for swimming and other outdoor activities.

Plymouth Notes

FURTHER DOWN the shore the Eel River Beach Club, in Plymouth, is the rendezvous of a gay group which gathers every morning to watch the tennis or take a dip in the pool . . . Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bartlett dropped in for a swim the other morning after taking their friends, Doane Arnold, the John Crawfords, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Tarbell and Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Chandler, for a sail on their new boat . . .

Mrs. Sherman Whipple and her week-end guests, Mrs. Donald Field and Mrs. Harry Anderson, sampled the cool waters of the pool, and attractive Mrs. Harold McNeil was a spectator at the tennis matches nearby . . . Wearing a soft pink ensemble and a wide-brimmed white hat, she was accompanied by her daughter, Nancy, who wore a pink and white peppermint striped sport frock . . . Mrs. Maurice Blackmur in navy blue and white, and Mrs. Bouldin Burbank with her two attractive children, Barbara and Sandy, were others among the tennis spectators . . .

Opening Dance of the Season

THE YOUNG PEOPLE turned out in large numbers for the opening dance of the season at the Eel River Club . . . Lois Brewster, in a crisp larkspur blue linen gown, was escorted by Lothrop Withington, Jr. . . . Mary Elizabeth Edes wore a patriotic red and white plaid evening frock with a blue jacket, and Mary Greenwood wore soft green chiffon . . . Her sister, Drusilla, is not only an expert swimmer, but a clever little entertainer, and filled in the lull between dances by putting on a brisk tap dance routine . . .

Lydia Brewster and Karklile Withington were also at the dance . . . Karki in red and white stripped bodice with a white skirt and a white ostrich feather in her hair . . . Teaney Whipple wore a pale green evening dress with touches of rose . . .

Dr. Halsey Loder continues to be a genial host to many friends aboard his boat, Sou'wester 2nd, which is anchored off Manter's Point . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Meyer spent the week-end in Plymouth as house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hornblower . . .

Mrs. Chester Greenough has opened her home on Eel River Hill and Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin A. G. Thorndike are settled for the summer in their house on Manters Point . . .

Newtonville Girl Weds

Miss Cynthia Southworth, daughter of Mrs. Norman Southworth of Newtonville, was married Saturday at Friendship, Me., to William Lewis Tompkins, son of Mrs. W. L. Tompkins of Madison, N. J.

The ceremony in the Advent Church was followed by a reception at the summer home of the bride's mother, Given in marriage by her uncle, Alva T. Southworth, the bride wore ivory tulle over moire taffeta, a tulle veil falling from a coronet of orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and baby's breath.

Betty Southworth, gowned in aqua tulle with a bouquet of peach gladiolias, was maid of honor. The bride's mother chose a blue and white print ensemble with a large blue horsehair hat, and the groom's mother wore a black and white print with a white hat.

Eugene A. Curry of Madison was best man.

The bride attended Randolph Macon Womer's College and Katharine Gibbs School. Mr. Tompkins is a graduate of Union College, Schenectady. The couple will make their home in Newtonville.

Love And Marriage

Own Feelings Your Guide

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

The last year of the four we have gone together, we became engaged. He's 35 and I am 30. But rumor has it that he has been sneaking out of the house of a questionable woman in the early morning hours, and that she has lent him sums of money. My family now are opposed to my seeing him, but I have been seeing him on the sly, and he tells me these rumors are untrue and wants to get married immediately.

I have lost a lot of love and respect for him, and don't know what to do.

UNCERTAIN.

It seems to me that if a woman loves a man enough to become engaged to him and expects to marry him, that she should not accept rumors about his behavior unless they're substantiated.

Your family evidently believe these charges. Is your faith in him strong enough to do this, though you tell me you have lost a lot of love and respect for him? How strongly are you influenced by gossip? And shouldn't you be more guided by your own feelings?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am going "steady" with a young man, who gave me a birthstone ring for my birthday. I reciprocated with a gift for his birthday. Would it be proper for me to send a birthday card to a boy friend of mine, whom I like very much?

J. F.

If going "steady" means engaged, as it seems to with some young people, don't you think you might be raising false hopes if you send a birthday card to the other young man, unless you are one of the prudent type, who wants to keep two strings to her bow?

Beach Frocks a Revelation

YOUR most sophisticated dinner frocks have nothing on frankness that the beach frocks can't duplicate . . . and the decolletages are every bit as good looking. Harper's Bazaar says that people eye beach clothes with the same critical spirit used in viewing town clothes . . . and there's a difference between sleek smartness and overdone frilliness . . . though ruffles can be just as sophisticated if you know how to treat them. They nominate this white rayon with a red and white striped band around the waist. It's ideal to slip into for luncheon when you're spending the whole day at the beach—ANNICE BRINK.

Summer Apple Delicacies

By MARTHA LEE

SUMMER APPLES are coming on the market now, and their tangy flavor can be enjoyed for the next six weeks. It's time to enjoy their fresh, piquant flavor in "green" apple sauce, "green" apple pie, and all the other fine dishes for which these apples are so good.

The National Apple Institute reminds us that the leading summer varieties are Transparents, Gravensteins, Duchess, Wealthies (picked early in the mid-west for cooking), Williams Reds, Starrs Early Harvest. All are tart and juicy, and therefore ideal for cooking.

Apples are one of the vital protective foods, and even the slimmest budgets can afford them.

"GREEN" APPLE PIE

8 apples, medium size
1½ cups sugar
2 tbsp. flour
2 tbsp. butter
Plain pastry

Pare and slice apples. Add sugar and flour and mix well before pouring into bottom crust. Dot mixture with butter, then add top crust. Bake in hot (450 deg. F.) oven for 15 minues, then decrease heat to moderate (350 deg. F.) for another 35 or 20 minutes. To insure a flaky crust, be very sparing with the water added to the pastry mixture, and handle the mixture as sparingly and lightly as possible.

VARIATIONS

Use a lattice top.

Add grated sharp cheese to the pastry recipe at the time the shortening is combined with the flour.

Use apple sauce in a baked pastry shell, and top with grated cheese.

APPLE ROLL

6 apples
Short biscuit dough
¾ cup brown sugar
3 tbsp. butter

Pare, core and cut apples into small slices. Roll dough to less than ½ inch thickness. Spread apples on evenly, sprinkle with brown sugar, dot with butter. Roll in jelly-roll fashion and slice. Bake in moderate oven for 30 minutes. Serve with cream.

Making delicious apple sauce is so easy, a recipe is hardly necessary. Take:

Apples, water, sugar and salt.

Slice the apples and place in pan with very little water. Bring to boiling point quickly and cook until slices are transparent and ready to break apart. Add sugar to taste and a pinch of salt. Run through colander or mash with potato masher. Let the fine fresh flavor of summer apples speak for itself; don't hide it with too much spice.

OLD-FASHIONED APPLE DUMPLINGS

Short biscuit dough
6 apples, pared and cored
½ cup sugar
Butter

Roll dough to ¼ inch thickness, cut into 6-inch squares. Place an apple on each square, sprinkle with sugar. Sprinkle lightly with flour and a bit of salt, add a spot of butter. Bring corners of dough to top of apple, press edges together. Place in baking pan, cover bottom with water, bake in moderate oven 45 minutes to 1 hour.

BAKED APPLE ICE CREAM

Prepare an extra supply of baked apples for breakfast or lunch, and then serve this delicious summer dessert for dinner:

1 cup sieved baked apples
1 cup boiled soft custard
1 cup cream, whipped
Powdered sugar

Combine ingredients, add powdered sugar if not sweet enough. Freeze in automatic refrigerator tray.

POTATO SOUP

4 small potatoes
2 tbsp. tapioca
1½ tsp. salt
Dash of cayenne
Dash of black pepper
4 cups of milk, scalded
1 medium onion, finely chopped
4 tbsp. butter

Cook potatoes in boiling salted water until tender. Drain and mash. Add tapioca, salt, cayenne, and black pepper to milk, and cook in double boiler 15 minutes, or until tapioca is clear, stirring frequently. Add other ingredients. Serves 4.

Their Secret Marriage

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1—We are going to be married in church in a few weeks. We were married secretly a month ago, and I would like to have you tell me if it will be necessary for us to tell the priest about this. Our parents are the only ones who know of this previous marriage, and they wish us to be married again in church.

2—It is to be a formal wedding and I am to wear formal attire. Will it be necessary for my best man and ushers also to be dressed in formal attire? ROBERT.

1—Without fail, you and the young lady should go at once to the priest and tell him of this previous ceremony. He will advise you just what you should do in this circumstance.

2—The men in a wedding party wear the same type of attire that is worn by the bridegroom.

Tell Fascinating Fortunes

ENTERTAIN WITH DICE AND CARD SECRETS

Five a lover gallant, true.
Six some precious gift for you."

They're telling fortunes by the Magic Circle and having bushels of fun.

For everybody loves fortunes—and you'd never guess how easy it is to tell them by dice, cards, horoscopes, other ways, too.

In the Magic Circle, you roll three dice onto a circle of cardboard, or one drawn with chalk on a table. Then you add the numbers on the tops of the dice. Is the total 15? Says the ancient rhyme of the Magic Circle:

"Fifteen, foul play without—steer clear.
Sixteen, a long lost lover will reappear."

Each number has its fateful meaning in the rhyme and the luckiest is 18, promising romance, friends, wealth and your dearest wish!

And who isn't all ears when you mention horoscopes! There's a horoscope for each month of the year in our 40-page booklet, Let Me Tell Your Fortune. Gives complete rhyme for the Magic Circle, explains card fortunes according to the Seven Gypsy Sisters, by the Raspelli and Spaewife systems, other ways, too. Shows how to tell fortunes with tea leaves, dominues; has pointers on "crystal gazing."

Send 15 cents in coins for our booklet, Let Me Tell Your Fortune, to Boston Evening American, Home Institute, 109 West 19th st., New York, N. Y. Write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

PROVINCIALS might term Michael Kane a "typical" New Yorker. But of course he wasn't any such thing for nobody in this big city is "typical." True, there are one or two common characteristics but aside from that everybody here is different, individual, a personality unto himself.

The Cast of Characters in "The City Speaks"

ELLEN, a small town product now in New York, convinced that it is the coldest place in the world.

MICHAEL, a New Yorker who loves the town because nobody knows your business, not even your nearest neighbors

The City Speaks

By Charles Schuman

Now Michael had never been outside the city. He was born in it, lived in it all his 20 years, and loved it. He chewed gum, rode the subways and believed that all Englishmen are sissies and that the French are immoral. Yonkers was the hinterlands to him. He'd never been farther south than Brooklyn, and as far as Michael was concerned, his country was bounded on the west by the Hudson.

In other words, New York was Mike's world. And more than anything else, he liked the privacy the city afforded.

For, truth to tell, Michael, despite his brawn—he stood six feet and tipped the beam at 190—was a trifle on the shy side. It must needs be that most New Yorkers have a bit of that shyness in them. For it is this shyness, and not the pretended indifference that they use as a cover for it, which explains their lack of words to each other.

For instance, Michael had been living for seven years with his two sisters and his mother in the same crowded tenement just this side of the Williamsburg Bridge. And in all that time Mike had never spoken to any of his neighbors. He didn't even know them. Of course he'd heard his mother speak of Mrs. Cohen on the floor below, and Mr. Gidano, and Mrs. O'Brien with the ailing husband. But Mike, protected in his shyness by the peculiar traditions of this great city, had never spoken a word to them. Mike, who lived here among eight million others, had as much privacy as if he lived alone on Manhattan Island.

A DIFFERENT TYPE

Ellen O'Donnell, now, was very unlike Mike Kane. First of all, she was a small town girl. She came from Carthage, which town is in Missouri, and she'd been in this Big City only some three short months, but long enough for her to know she didn't like it. . .

Ellen was alone. That's what she didn't like about the city. And that is where she differed from Mike Kane. Mike liked the aloneness, the solitude you could enjoy while surrounded by millions of folk, and Ellen hated it. To her it was unnatural, it was unlike anything that God ever made people for.

After graduating from Stephens Junior College, Ellen, who had as neat a figure as could be found among the 1500 girls at school, talked her mother into letting her come to New York to seek a modeling job. Ellen figured that New York, with its eight million people, ought to be just that many times more friendly than Carthage with its population of only 10,000. And if New York proved to be all that it should Ellen was going to send for her mother and settle here.

"I hope I haven't offended you," Mike said.

But what a fizzle the city turned out to be. First, it seemed the city was plentifully supplied with models, for the time being anyway, and while she was waiting she had to take a small typing job. And secondly, and even more important to Ellen with her youthful sensitivity, was the unfriendly attitude of the people here. Well, perhaps not unfriendly, but at least indifferent.

People didn't care about you. Ellen wasn't used to this kind of treatment and she found it hard to bear. She wanted friends and companionship. For three months she'd been in this New York of which she had heard so much and she didn't have one friend, one sympathetic person to talk to. Ellen just about made up her mind, come Saturday, she'd collect her pay, and quit this place for good.

It was on this day—it was summertime and the twilight was coming down—that Mike met Ellen O'Donnell right in the middle of the Williamsburg Bridge. That meeting as a honey.

First Mike saw the bright yellow dress, and then the long dark tresses, and then the sadness in her face struck him. There was an unfamiliar tugging at Mike's innards, and suddenly he felt the need to talk to the girl.

But Mike kept himself in check, for he was shy, and besides it was practical sacrilege to speak to a stranger in New York unless you were at a bar or unless you said, "Got a match, buddy?" or, "Say, Mac, how do you get to Madison street?"

NO OFFENSE

What Mike did was stare, and stare some more because that was the next best thing to talking to her, and because in New York it is permissible to stare. He just kept staring and the warmth and the beauty of the girl entered into him and overcame his New York backwardness, which outsiders think is indifference. And he spoke to the girl. He said "Hello."

The girl looked at Mike in wonder. For a minute she was stumped and then she said, "Do you know you're the first person to speak to me in six months, outside of my landlady and my boss and a drunken sailor?"

I hope I haven't offended you," Mike said.

"Heavens, no," the girl laughed, "I'm glad to have you talk to me. Everybody in this darn city is so cold and unfriendly."

Immediately Mike rose in defense of his city. "What do you mean, cold and unfriendly?" he said. "You just don't understand folks."

"Why, there's nothing to understand," the girl said, "people are just unfriendly. Nobody talks to you. Nobody cares about you. It doesn't matter whether you're here or not, nobody knows the difference."

"You're right" Mike said, "what's wrong with that?"

"I wish it were more like Carthage," the girl said. "Carthage, Missouri, that's my home. Out there people are real friendly, interested in you. Nobody is a stranger there. Everybody on the street smiles and says, 'Good morning,' or 'Good evening.'"

"The heels of industry would stop if everybody in New York passed the time of day with you," Mike said.

"Yes" the girl admitted, "there are quite a few people in New York. But gee, not even your neighbor talks to you here. If you starved to death or got married or something nobody would know it."

"If I have to starve to death or get married or something I prefer the neighbors not to know it," Mike said.

They turned toward Manhattan, arm in arm and she told him her name was Ellen O'Donnell. And she found out what he was called and then told him she had intended to return to Carthage Saturday but now she wasn't sure and then she told him where she lived.

"Why, that's only a few doors from my house Mike said.

"That's what I mean," Ellen said. "Now if we lived in Carthage you would have known me all the time

"And so would the other nine thousand people in town," Mike said. "And if you had a cold they'd know that to, and if your kid brother had measles or Mrs. Schultz had another baby they'd know that too

"And that's the way it should be and that's the way I like it" Ellen retorted.

As if there'd been no interruption, Mike continued, "And if you had a new beau they'd know that too. Well, if I have a new girl, that's my private business and I don't want the neighbors to know it."

A SWELL COUPLE

They came off the bridge and walked up the tenement block where they both lived People lined the sidewalk, and when they reached Mike's house there were people on the stoop, people at every window. That's how it is in the tenements, especially in Summer

They looked at Ellen and they looked at Mike and the innocence and happiness of these two youngsters made itself felt through all these people. They felt something like Mike did when he first saw her and couldn't restrain himself from talking to her And when the beauty and the happiness of the youngsters penetrated through their pretended indifference, through their underlying shyness, like Mike they cast aside tradition and restraint and spoke up

"A beautiful girl, Michael" a voice which Mike intuitively knew belonged to Mr. Gidano said

"You make a swell couple, Mike" —that would be an O'Brien.

"Such a nice pair you are" — Mike knew that would be Mrs. Cohen.

And upstairs, was upstairs, a woman he didn't know at all waved and smiled to them

And Michael glowed. Michael Kane, who preferred solitude who insisted he didn't want the neighbors to know about him, waved at the people and smiled and beamed at everybody and threw out his chest and was proud. And Ellen, who liked small town neighborliness, blushed and shivered a bit and tried to shrink down and hide behind Mike's big frame

THE END.

HOW TO GET A LOAN AT LOWER COST

You can borrow $100 if you can pay back $6.41 a month

You can get a personal loan of $20 to $600 at Household's convenient offices without endorsers or guarantors—if you can repay on easy monthly installments.

Payments to fit your purse

You may choose the most convenient repayment plan from the table below. Suppose that you need $100 and you can readily repay $9.55 a month. Your requirements will repay a $100 loan in full in twelve months. Or, if you wish smaller payments, you may arrange to pay $6.41 a month for twenty months or otherwise repay a $100 loan.

See the complete loan and payment plans in the table. Loans also made in other amounts and for other periods. Payments in the table repay everything. They include charges at Household's rate of 2½% a month. This rate is less than the maximum permitted by the Massachusetts Small Loan Law. Note that the more you repay, the less your loan costs.

Simple to borrow

We require no salary or wage assignment, no attack on friends. (Loans are made on furniture or car or note.) No embarrassing inquiry of friends or relatives. And you don't have to take time off from work to tell workers' troubles to the loan manager.

Political Cheering vs. The Sport Crowd Yells

THE COLLEGE SPORT CHEER rarely lasts more than a few seconds, even when conducted by cheer leaders. Yet the quantity and vehemence of the whoops, screeches and hollers which were set up in the Republican conclave at Philadelphia and will be set up again by the Democrats at Chicago at the name of some political hack moves one to wonder whether the delegates are quite frank in their enthusiasm.

AUSTEN LAKE

If 2000 politicians, gathered in a convention hall can scream from five to 30 minutes, ramble around the floor on sore shanks, push and stagger in mass formations long past the period when their natural devotions have subsided, then the students of Boston Collge did somewhat less than proper by their semi-champion football team last fall. If the delegates can summon and sustain so much emotional leg-go over a pre-digested party plank or some pre-arranged nominations then, as a pro-rata outburst B. C., should have kept the wild echoes flying steadily since last October for the husky varsity which all but won the seaboard title and went to the Cotton Bowl.

College Ace Tops

THERE IS NOTHING MORE FERVID IN the line of vocal devotion than a horseshoe bank of college boys, girls and alumni tearing out their larynxes when some swivel-hipped halfback dodges through a rival jam for the winning touchdown—unless one favors the baseball dementia in Brooklyn or Boston's Stanley Cup hysteria.

But such cheers, though spontaneous and genuine, are always brief and rarely go past 15 seconds. They break out as a special compliment to some athlete or situation, like a miracle "save" on the lip of the hockey goal, or the disposal of some rival slugger, or a fishtail run of some ball carrier. But, though the sport fans are often stirred to a fever pitch, they never think of tumbling down from their seats onto the field to go sprawling all over the place for the next hour, honking horns, shaking rattles and howling "Ray-ray-ray" till their batteries go dry.

Republicans vs. Democrats

IT IS CONCEIVABLE THAT THE Republicans, having suffered unemployment anguish since 1932, were cheering for jobs, federal contracts and similar perquisites which have been monopolized by the Democrats. And in their turn next week the Democrats will be required to outyell the opposition for the sake of keeping their monopoly, just as the college crowd, with its team beleaguered on the goal, sets up a rhythmic clamor, "Hold-that-line." As the party cheer leader the Hon. James Farley will have charge of that in Chicago and, as an old student of fight-crowd psychology when he was New York's boxing commissioner under the patronage of Franklin D. Roosevelt, he understands the trick of titilating mass emotion.

But there is a difference in crowd noise, as Mr. George (Orchidaceous) Marshall learned when he conducted his first experiments with the professional Redskins football team in Boston some years ago. Mr. Marshall wished to copy the collegiate conditions at his football games and to that end he hired some girl cheer leaders and outfitted a brass band of grizzled musicians in sweaters and freshman caps. He also sprinkled his passes freely among the fishpedlars, newsboys and fruit hucksters of the Faneuil Hall area and grouped them together in the midfield sections.

But though the band blew varsity blurts and strutted the length of the field and though the female shout-leaders jumped around in their satin kilts, the yells of the costers and pedlars lacked spiritual sincerity and Mr. Marshall was obliged to confess that it was just a lot of loose noise and gave up the idea of fostering the college spirit among his clients.

Two Minutes Is Count of Enthusiam

THE NATIONAL POLITICAL CONVENTIONS are merely another and magnified kind of pre-game pep rally, which the Harvard boys gave up some years ago as too foolish for cultured persons. The Harvard students said that the night before the game was too soon to cheer and that applause was for triumphs gained by hard effort and the time to cheer was after these things had happened.

And even when they sat on the slopes at Soldiers Field the Harvards gave only tepid response to their yell leaders, making desultory shouts that faded like exhalations of breath on a frosty morning. The students practiced to yell ad lib, as the spirit prompted and each according to his style of expression.

There probably has never been a figure in politics or sport who could not be suitably applauded within the space of, say, two minutes. Beyond that enthusiasm resolves into a state of hypnosis similar to the spiritual spasms of Father Divine's Harlem Heaven where the parishioners leap and froth until they come down with the heaves and have to be swept up by the janitors.

But the national convention delegates are always careful to stop cheering this side of exhaustion and save a little breath to yell again for some issue or candidate decided upon previously by party leaders in some hotel room. So that they are usually yelling for something that has been common knowledge for days. Yet at its, or his, mention there they will go, splitting their own eardrums, toy balloons in hand, as though somebody had just boosted U. S. Steel Common back to 345. Listen to them over your radio next week.

Challedon, Many Stings Race Here Tomorrow

Challedon and Many Stings were today entered to compete for the Corinthian purse over a distance of one mile and a sixteenth at Suffolk Downs tomorrow afternoon.

There will be no other horses in this race, and no betting will be permitted on it.

It will be run as an extra race and will be spotted between the first and second races.

There will be a purse of $1500 for the winner.

W. L. Brann named George Woolf to pilot Challendon, which will carry 126 pounds, while LeMar Stock Farm will have M. Berger up on Many Stings, which will leave the barrier with a weight impost of 118 pounds.

MASS. CAP JULY 17

The Massachusetts Racing Commission gave permission for this race with the stipulation there would not be any betting.

Both horses are here getting ready for the $50,000 added Massachusetts Handicap that will be held at Suffolk Downs on July 17, and their owners were anxious that they have a conditioner to eighten them up.

The appearance of Challedon and Many Stings on tomorrow's card is certain to attract many persons to Suffolk Downs.

BLONDIE GETS SIGNALS—Al Dickensheid, left, head of the Field Division in the Internal Revenue Department, gives instructions to John "Blondie" Ryan. Ryan, one-time great Holy Cross quarterback and baseball player, is a federal agent now. He starred for the Giants after college, but went back to the minors and quit professional baseball.

'Smash-Camera' Edict Puts Durocher on Spot

By BILL GRIMES

If given enough time all "popoffs" will eventually come to grief.

Lippy Leo Durocher, manager of the Dodgers, is a popoff of the first water. And because he ran off at the mouth yesterday at National League Field during the first game of the doubleheader that his "Brooks" lost to the Bees 1-0 and 2-1 and dropped out of first place, Lippy Leo is now in the "dog house" with the cameramen.

When Buddy Hassett and Dolph Camilli collided in the third inning of the first game, they both took a long count. Seeing Camilli stretched out on the grass inside the first base line and Hassett on his back beyond the initial sack, the cameramen raced over to get a pix.

Just as soon as he saw the photographers going into action, Durocher yelled "smash those cameras." Joe Medwick and Joe Gallagher charged the cameramen and threatened to carry out Durocher's instructions. They didn't get away with their threats for the pixmen got their "shots."

DROP TO SECOND PLACE

Possibly, Durocher sensed that the Dodgers were on their way down into second place. If he did, Lippy must be psychic for it was the third inning of the opening game that he was scratched off the cameramen's books.

At the end of the twin bill, Lippy Leo was singing the blues as they have rarely been sung. Large Manuel Salvo, who wasn't good enough for Bill Terry but who pitched four remarkable games for the Bees, shut out the Dodgers, 1 to 0 in the opening to win his third game for the Stengelese.

Then, Bill Posdel blanked the Brooks until two men were down in the ninth round of the nightcap. Because Dick Coffman who relieved "Porthole," sneaked across a third strike on Pinch Hitter Joe Vosmik with the bases loaded for the final out, the Bees took a 2 to 1 decision.

BEES LACK PITCHERS

To be perfectly fair and truthful, the Bees would have made a clean sweep, instead of breaking even, of the Dodger series if they had received just one break in the 20-inning game on Friday and a couple on Saturday.

If the Dodgers are qualified to set the pace for the National League for the first half of the season, then the Bees have no business in seventh place. Give them the proper pitching and the Bees are a match for any club in the league.

Fans Cool To All-Star Classic

ST. LOUIS, July 8 (AP)—The bargain-loving fans of this metropolis on the Mississippi apparently awoke t othe significance of the All-Star game that baseball is bringing to Sportsman's Park tomorrow.

Previously the people who stay away in droves from the daily doings of the Browns and Cardinals had given their customary nonchalant treatment to the big midsummer spectacle and a couple of thousand reserved seats as well as 5000 bleacher spaces still were available

President Sam Breadon of the Cardinals, who is host to the eighth annual charity contest, said, however, that he was confident the park would be filled to its 33,000 capacity Tuesday. He explained that box seats had never been placed on public sale, but had been taken by their regular holders and officials, and that a week-end rush for other seats would assuredly fill the arena.

There were just 7303 paying customers in the stands for the Cards' Sunday doubleheader with the Pirates.

Fans speculated mildly about the makeup of the two star combinations, not only regarding the starting lineups but also on replacements for players who are withdrawing from the original squads.

The Chicago Cubs' Hank Leiber disclosed he did not intend to play. Bill Nicholson of the Chicago Cubs will replace the ailing Leiber. Bill Jerges of the New York Giants already had been replaced by Eddie Miller of the Boston Bees and Red Rolfe of the Yankees by Cecil Travis of the Washington Senators.

Most of the All Stars were expected this morning, but some of the Eastern members will not arrive until late in the day.

Pending announcements from Bill McKechnie of the National League and Joe Cronin of the American, the rival managers, no one could do any more than guess at the likely lineups.

Generally Paul Derringer and Ernie Lombardi of the Reds were expected to be the opening battery for the senior circuit and rapid Robert Feller and Rollie Hemsley of the Cleveland Indians for the American League.

The junior circuit, which has won five of the seven past games, was favored heavily again and was certain to take the field with an edge both in pitching and batting strength.

Some of the major league magnates began arriving late today for today's meetings of the American and National League.

Breardon said he expected to discuss with other club owners of the senior circuit the advisability of increasing the limit on night baseball, but added that he had an "open mind" on the matter and did not intend to ask permission to play more than the seven already acheduled "at least this season." The St. Louis Browns of the American League recently doubled their quota of night games to 14.

"OH, MY HEAD" — Joe Cronin, Red Sox pilot and the last word on the American League All-Star team, is in a quandary as to how to silence the bats of Ducky Medwick and Harry Danning let alone solve the baffling shoots that Bucky Walters and Paul Derringer are sure to serve up. The Fenway chieftain was silent on the makeup of his team at press time. He, however, will present the strongest array of American League players to offset the batting power of the National leaguers.

GOATS—Bill Lee, Chicago pitcher, who walked in the winning run in the eighth as the Cincinnati Reds defeated the Cubs; Whitlow Wyatt, Brooklyn pitcher, who lost a four-hitter by putting the winning run on base with a walk.

GROVE BRILLIANT IN SPLIT WITH NATS

Rest and relaxation is the order of the day for the Red Sox who arrived back in town this morning from Washington where they were busily engaged the past few days belting to a fare-thee-well the sorry Senators of Bucky Harris.

Manager Joe, of course, and his All-Star coterie of Williams, Cramer, Foxx, Finney, Moe Berg, Tom Daly and Win Green, are westward bound in hopes of settling the hash of the National Leaguers in St. Louis.

The rest of the boys, under the squireship of Coach Frank Shellenbach, are content to just bide their time until tomorrow night when they play an exhibition game at Brockton.

Wednesday it's nothing to do all over again as the Sox are not scheduled until Thursday when that tough tyke Jimmy Dykes brings his White Sox in to do battle

SOX NEED REST

Most of the Hose really welcome the pair of breathers the All-Star game affords them. They have been going at a steady clip now for just about half a season and even playing baseball can become monotonous when you're forced to do it day in and day out.

The Sox are a happier ball club than when they left here last week following the double pasting handed them by the Yankees on the holiday.

So prolonged was their slump that even the veterans, who learn to take nose dives in stride, were wondering if they really was as bad a bunch of ball players as their record over the past month indicated.

But that three in a row from the Senators before bowing in the night-cap of the twin bill yesterday perked up Clan Cronin no end and the team figures it's ready, willing and able to knock off all comers in the pennant scramble, from here in.

Particularly jubilant was Lefty Grove and with beaucoup reason. Grove really had it in that opening game yesterday and was as strong at the game's finish as he was when George Case squared off against him in the opening inning.

LEFTY LACKS STAMINA

Lefty's trouble isn't with that left whip any more. That's as sound as ever. What beats the old guy now is lack of stamina. Grove has been working hard to round into first class condition but has found it no easy job because of his age. At the conclusion of yesterday's victory Mose declared he is convinced that he is now physically right to win consistently for the remainder of the season. What a help that will be.

The Sox scored five runs in the first three innings to ice the opener. Run number one came in the second when Williams walked, was sent around by Finney, who collected five hits in the course of the afternoon, and scored while Jim Tabor was being thrown out at first.

The third found the Sox at their scoringest. Doerr, with two away, whiffed at a third strike, but reached first when Rick Ferrell lost the ball. Cramer and Williams then singled, Finney doubled, Pofahl heaved a Tabor bounder into the Washington dugout and presto, four runs had tallied.

FERRELL SCORED FOR NATS

The Senators scored their loner when Rick Ferrell tripled and Dutch Leonard singled him home after two were out in the fifth. Grove was invincible the rest of the game and faced only 35 Washington batsmen.

Boss Cronin, in an attempt to make it four in a row, picked Alex Mustaikis, late of Scranton, to twirl the second game. It was a bad Mustaikis on Joe's part, as Alex just didn't have it.

He walked the first two men to

Oliver Bows To Little

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 8 (AP)—National Open Golf Champion Lawson Little defeated Ed Oliver, Hornell, N. Y., pro, one up in the first match of a "consolation" series at nearby Williamsville Park Club before a gallery of about 1000.

Both players shot brilliant golf, and each finished with a 138 medal score, six under par, for the 36-hole match.

Oliver who was disqualified in the national open at Cleveland for starting his final round ahead of time, was two up on Little on the 26th. The national open titleholder was equal to the task, however, and won the 27th, 29th and 31st. They halved the last five holes

Nominations For Rock Feature Close July 15

SALEM, N. H., July 7—Nominations for the eight stake events which will feature the summer meeting at Rockingham Park will close one week from today, July 15, and the eighth season of New Hampshire racing will get away from the post on July 29.

John P. Turner, one of the outstanding racing secretaries in the country, will arrive here next week-end to receive and sort out the stake applications.

Two of the stakes will be traditional events for two-year-olds, the Salem for fillies, and the Maplewood for colts and geldings. Another one, the New England States Handicap, will be confined to three-year-olds and will be at a mile and one-sixteenth.

The Matron Handicap will be for fillies and mares, three year-olds and upward, and the others—the Tomlin, the Granite State, the Raceland, and the Rockingham Park Handicap will be open races for three-year-olds and upward.

It is a varied program of stakes, to suit the widest variety of horse, and the late closing date for the nominations is certain to result in the naming of thoroughbreds which are fit and ready to run.

Pass Out, one of the outstanding three year-olds in the country has been quartered here for the past week, and is among the 350 thoroughbreds already on the grounds, three weeks in advance of the meeting.

He arrived in a special train from Delaware Park a week ago, along with 13 other thoroughbreds trained by Waller, worked once over the kind Rockingham racing strip, vanned down to Suffolk Downs on the holiday, and won the $15,000 added Yankee Handicap over some of the finest three-year-olds in the east.

As a result of his smashing victory in the mud, he will be one of the favorites for the $50,000 Massachusetts Handicap, and undoubtedly he will be named for some of the approaching Rockingham events.

Ted Adams Favored To Retain Amateur Golf Title at Salem

By BILL GRIMES

After capturing the Massachusetts amateur championship crown for four successive years, Fred J. Wright, Jr., defaulted the title in 1932 and since the diadem has come up with new owners annually.

Teddy Adams, the 19-year-old ex-caddy from Wollaston, will start the defense of his state amateur crown tomorrow at the Salem Country Club. Teddy is better qualified, as to natural ability, to successfully defend his title than were any of his predecessors, who failed.

If he but knuckles down to business keeps his mind on his work, Adams is a good bet to repeat.

"Smiler" has the distance and shots to hold his own in any company, and even more important he has a remarkable competitive temperament. However, when he's out of his "grove," Teddy is a "prayer," and if he's wild off the tees he'll spend much of tomorrow and Wednesday out in the "elephant" country of the Salem jungle, for most of the fairways are guarded by woods.

In the event that he weathers the qualifying rounds, "Smiler" will be the man to beat for the title.

VAULTED HIGH BARRIERS

A year ago Teddy Adams eliminated at least two threats on his way to the finals. After beating his pal, Joey Hoffman in the first round Teddy put an end to Ted Bishop's fourth try for state honors and then in the semi-finals, he knocked off Carl Nettelbladt, the pre-championship favorite at the third extra hole.

Ted met and defeated Ray Marad at the George Wright C. C. in the finals. Marad was pratically an unknown entering the championship and though he failed on his final test, he was one of the best known and most respected golfers in the state when the finals were over.

Marad opened up his drive to the finals with a 1 up victory over Joe Lynch, the 1933 champion, and then eliminated Ken Corcoran, who, incidentially, will be a real threat at Salem. In the third round "Bunny" Wilson carried Marad to the 20th hole before bowing in defeat, and then he put out one of the best match players in the state, Franklin T. Pfaelzer, Jr. at The Country Club in a thrilling 18 hole match.

Joe Lynch, Blue Hill, is the only other entry in the field to have held the state crown, but there will be 113 contestants trying for the 32 match play berths in this, the 36th Massachusetts amateur championship.

BISHOP IN JOUST

Ted Bishop, Woodland, is for the fifth time one of the pre-championship favorites. He has been a threat in every state amateur titular event he has played but for some unexplicable reason he has never been able to get beyond the second round for the past three years. In 1936, Howard M. Biscoe stopped him in the quarter finals at Charles River.

Ken Corcoran, Oyster Harbors, will bear watching this week. The former Georgetown University boy is playing the best golf of his career. Time and again this season, Ken had broken par on his home course and he was anything but a push-over last week at Manchester, Vt., during the Robert Todd Lincoln Memorial Cup tournament at Ekwanok.

Wilfred Crossley, a former state junior and New England amateur title holder, will play at Salem. He hasn't played much competitive golf for two or three years but judging from some of the low rounds he has turned in at Norfolk, he's worthy of serious consideration.

As usual, the 36 hole qualifying round will be interesting for two reasons, for it will determine the medalist and the Windeler Shield, which is now in possession of the Tedesco Country Club.

The Salem Country Club, as well as the defending champions, Tedesco, has entered a strong team to compete for the Windeler Shield and the same holds true for The Country Club and the Green Hill Golf Club of Worcester.

Grove Immense As Sox Split

face him and before the initial frame was over the Sox faced a three-run deficit. They never overcame it although they did knot the count in the fourth. Washington took advantage of minor league pitching and sloppy fielding to score two runs in the fifth and again in the seventh to take the ball game.

The Sox threatened in the ninth when Dom DiMaggio doubled and Finney singled him home. The rest of the Hose couldn't keep it alive, however, and had to be content with a split for the day.

Use of Dom DiMaggio against left handed pitchers—long overdue—should pay dividends. The Sox suffer none with the youngest of that fabous ball-playing family in the line-up. As a matter of fact he generally looks like the best man on the field whenever he has a chance to show. He'll be in there somewhere yet.

Reds, Tigers Lead In Latest Shuffle Of League Leaders

By International News

They're revising the standings of the major league clubs these warm July days as often and as quickly as the boundary lines on a European map.

Yesterday no less than six clubs, including the league leaders in both races, changed positions, indicating that setting the pace at this early date requires a number of good breaks, a strong nervous system and plenty of good baseball.

For example, Brooklyn won seven consecutive games, then dropped two tough one-run decisions, which caused them to be evicted from the pressure point—first place—in the senior circuit.

Although approximately 1000 fervid Flatbush fans travelled by special train to Boston to cheer their heroes on, the Durocher Dandies ran into a school of good pitching and dropped both ends of a double-header to the Bees, 1 to 0 and 2 to 1.

REDS REGAIN PEAK

While this was taking place, the Reds were defeating the Chicago Cubs, 4 to 3, to move back into the lead. Big Bill Lee was charged with his 11th defeat of the year when he walked Morrie Arnovich in the eighth to force in the winning score.

The "blow hot, blow cold" Pirates grabbed their second double-header in as many days from St. Louis to trade sixth place for fifth with the Cardinals Pittsburgh won 7 to 6 and 4 to 1.

Philadelphia and New York ended the afternoon even-Stephen, the Giants winning the first game of a twin bill, 6 to 4, and the Phillies the second, 4 to 2.

AGE HANDCUFFS YOUTH

The ageless Ted Lyons, the Chicago White Sox "Sunday" hurler, bested youthful Bob Feller in a pitchers' battle and set down the Indians, 3 to 1. It was Feller's fifth loss against 13 victories.

Meanwhile, a 5 to 2 triumph over the Browns restored the Tigers to first place in the American League. Schoolboy Rowe was the victor, giving the Tigers their third straight win over heretofore Giant-killing Browns.

Lefty Gomez suffered his first setback of the year when the Yankees dropped a 10 to 6 decision to the Athletics in the second game of a doubleheader after winning the first, 6 to 3. The last-place Senators and failing Red Sox halved a twin bill also. Boston won the first contest, 7 to 1, and Washington took the second 7 to 4.

Ray Billows Wins Lincoln Memorial Cup

MANCHESTER, Vt., July 8 (AP)—Favored Ray Billows, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., won the 13th renewal of the Robert Todd Lincoln Memorial Cup golf tournament by defeating surprising Ken Corcoran, of Oyster Harbors, Mass.

Artesanis Visit Roxbury Club

With a shutout over the Casey Club last Friday night, West Roxbury will be at home again tonight at Billings Field to the Artesani Club of Allston in the feature clash carded of five Boston Park League encounters.

Tonight, the Artesani's will oppose the Bensonmen with Barney Pallis hurling.

Roxbury and Roslindale fans will converge on Marcella Street grounds. Aslide from the sectional interest represented by these two clubs, this game will be the opening bid of the Crosby's in their drive towards first place.

The plate-power of Ray Coolidge's Carter's Clothiers will be again on display tonight at City Point where St. Alphonsus, fresh from an unexpected win over Roslindale, appears.

In the final game, Curt Fullerton will mount the Navy Yard bridge at Barry Park in an attempt to teach the young Boston Hellenics ballplayers the fine points of pitching.

Barrow Unaware Of Yankees Sale

NEW YORK, July 8 (AP)—Ed Barrow, vice-president of the New York Yankees, said he had not heard officially of the proposed sale of the baseball club to Postmaster General James A. Farley, but added he "would be glad to see" him as Yankee chieftain.

"He and I are old and fast friends and I know he would make a good baseball executive," Barrow declared. "He understands the game, the players and the problems of the men who run the ball clubs."

Mr. BOSTON

By JACK CONWAY

SCOOPED BY Colonel Dave Egan who took over our "Mr. Boston" column in the Sunday Advertiser to announce we would be a steward at the Rockingham Park meeting that opens on July 29 . . . The Colonel is always close to the news . . . Lou Smith verified the Colonel's scoop.

Thom Thorp, Billy Almy and Herman Conklin will serve with the author of this pillar, while Charles B. Stickney will once more represent the State of New Hampshire . . . I served in the stewards' stand at Suffolk Downs as the representative of the Massachusetts Racing Commission with Thorp, Almy, Conklin and Stickney and they certainly knew their business . . . Rockingham Park was the first track in New England to conduct legalized pari-mutuel betting.

Racing has come a long way since Lou Smith pioneered the sport in this section of the country, and Rockingham is looking forward to one of the most successful meetings in its history . . . Meanwhile I shall follow Colonel Egan's column in the Daily Record to see if he pops up with any more scoops.

Col. E. R. Bradley may be found at the Paddock Club at Suffolk Downs any afternoon . . . The Colonel expects to see his colors come down in front before the week is over . . . Frank Ryan says Suffolk Downs received many compliments from racegoers for making the early announcement that Bimelech would not run in the Yankee Handicap . . . Many race tracks have lost friends by claiming that a name horse like Bimelech would run, knowing all the time there was to be a last minute scratch.

Loveday was overlooked at Suffolk Downs on Saturday, and won as impressively as she had in her two previous starts at the same track . . . Be Jabbers didn't run fast enough to keep herself warm once she reached the half-way mark . . . Army Song, who paid $45 on a $2 ticket, had won his previous start . . . So had Play House who returned $27.20 in the middle.

Bobby Goldman remarked after Army Song won, that New England bettors often become too enthusiastic about the favorite and second choice, and overlook sound horses . . . Off his previous race, Army Song should not have been more than 10 to 1.

Dave Wilson's Winners have been clicking . . . Nine out of the last 11 code horses have won . . . The code horses that go with Dave Wilson's Winners appear exclusively in the Green Race Special of the Boston Evening American.

More Base Hits and Less Talk Needed

GEORGE HOLLAND of "Boston After Dark" fame said we called the turn with our news item last Saturday in regard to the Red Sox regular who has been beefing around night spots about Joe Cronin's poor management of the club . . . George says the Sox squawker would do better for himself and for his club if he went to bed nights at a reasonable hour instead of trying to run the Sox from night spots . . . Holland says he was pleased to see this pillar call attention to the matter . . . You may look for some action from the Red Sox bosses if the complaining player does not do a right about face . . . The Oscar Vitt affair was sufficient for one season.

Second rate ball players should try to improve their own playing, and let the job of managing a club belong to those who are paid to do the job . . . Cronin has probably been too nice to some of the prima donnas under his direction.

Dom DiMaggio will help the Sox if given more chances to play . . . The Coast youngster has speed, ambition and can hit fairly well . . . It has been a pretty difficult task for DiMaggio to get a regular berth in the Sox lineup due to the sensational playing of Lou Finney this season, but when the youngster has been put in as a utility player he has looked good.

Al McCoy Offered Bout on Coast

AL McCOY HAS been offered a bout with Pat Valentino, latest Coast heavyweight boxing sensation, at San Francisco . . . Johnny Ray, manager of Billy Conn, told this writer in New York last week that the world's light heavyweight champion was willing to come to Boston in September to battle McCoy . . . Matchmaker "Rip" Valenti of the Goodwin Club is planning the Conn-McCoy bout for the time when the American Legion convention will be here.

George Canty, Jr., 12-year-old son of George R. Canty, U. S. consul to Amsterdam, has arrived at Lisbon, Portugal, in the company of Mrs. Canty, a Sargeant School graduate, after an auto trip that took them from Switzerland through Holland, France, Italy and Spain . . . Young Canty was in an American school in Switzerland and could not be contacted by his parents on account of war conditions . . . So Mrs. Canty made the trip to Switzerland, and then through war-torn Holland and France.

They were obliged to do much of their traveling by night . . . When they reached Italy they found Italy was also in the war, and so they went through Spain to Lisbon . . . They are waiting passage to the United States.

With 20 years of foreign service behind him, U. S. Consul Canty remains at his post in Amsterdam to assist Americans.

They'll Do It Every Time -:- Hatlo

FIFTY BUCKS FOR THAT? YOU WERE ROBBED! I KNOW A GUY WHO PAINTS BETTER PICTURES THAN THAT FOR A DIME A DOZEN.
JUST WHAT IS IT SUPPOSED TO BE, ANYHOW?
SUNRISE ON THE DESERT? HMMPH! IT COULD BE MOONLIGHT ON THE WABASH FOR ALL I'D KNOW.
THAT MAY BE ALLEGED TO BE A CACTUS, BUT IT DON'T LOOK LIKE NONE OF THE ONES I BOUGHT AT THE FIVE-AND-TEN.
"YOUR FIRST INVESTMENT IN AN ORIGINAL ERL PAINTING, THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME".
THANX TO FRANK GRAY LOS ANGELES, CALIF.

Ranking Stars At North Conway

NORTH CONWAY, N. H., July 8—Seven nationally ranked tennis players were to start play here today in the Eastern Slope championships.

The seven are: Welby Van Horn, Los Angeles, 4; Frank Guernsey, Orlando, Fla., 11; Ernest Sutter, New Orleans, 13; Sid Wood, New York, 16; Edward Alloo, Berkeley, Cal., 19; George Toiley, Los Angeles, 20 and William Talbert, Cincinnati, 21.

A new champion will be crowned in the singles because Wayne Sabin, Portland, Ore., no longer is eligible for amateur events.

In the doubles, the Sutter brothers of New Orleans will defent their title.

Bridge Wizard to Run for Congress

RIDGEFIELD, Ct., July 8 (AP)—Ely Culbertson, the bridge expert, announced his candidacy for congressman-at-large on the Democratic ticket at a dinner which he gave for the Democratic town committee, state convention delegates and a few friends.

Culbertson, a Ridgefield resident for seven years, will have his political headquarters in Hartford. He said his policies "may be described in nine letters which spell Roosevelt."

Undefeated Pets Tackle Newark Team

Offering the softball gentry with the best girl attraction of the year, the Boston Olympets, undefeated in New England League competition this year, will play host to the strong power-laden Linden Girls of Newark, N. J., this Thursday evening at the Boston Garden.

The lassies from the Skeeter State will invade the Hub with one of the strongest nines in the east. This is because of the fact that the team is made up of a number of former players of the New York Roverettes and Americanettes which disbanded.

This outfit appeared here once last year and took back to the Skeeter State a 4 to 3 decision after a 12-inning battle.

LOS ANGELES, July 8 (AP)—Kayak II, winner of the 1939 Hollywood Gold Cup and the Santa Anita Handicap, heads a list of 10 stellar thoroughbreds nominated for the $10,000 mile and one-sixteenth Argonaut Handicap Saturday at Hollywood Park.

The Valdina Farm's Viscounty, winner of the American Handicap of July Fourth, also was named for the Argonaut, which promises a preview of the $50,000 Gold Cup event on July 27.

Other gold cup contenders nominated for Saturday are Gaffer and Sattler's Wedding Call, the Circle S. Stable's Hysterical and Bert Baroni's Specify.

Cocoanut Grove Star Consults John E. Warner

BOSTON, July 7 (JW) "Herb Lewis," nationally famous radio, stage and night club star, now appearing in the new Melody Lounge of the Cocoanut Grove knows that his good head of hair is a real asset. Like many other leaders in the entertainment and business worlds, he consults and takes treatment from John E. Warner. Business today places a high premium on personal appearance, and if you are losing your hair you should in your own best interests, find out if John E. Warner can help you. Statistics show that 85% of all baldness is due to local scalp conditions which can be checked and corrected if caught in time. But John E. Warner will not accept any case for treatment where the applicant is bald or the hair too far gone. People who expose their hair to the salt water and sun should be particularly careful because without the proper care it may be harmful to your scalp and cause exorbitant hair loss. There is never any charge for a private consultation and scalp examination. The Warner offices are conveniently located at 515 Washington St., near the corner of West Street (opposite R. H. White's). Suite 7-10-715. Phone Hub. 1705. Hours 10 A. M. to 8 P. M. Daily—Saturdays to 6 P. M. Fees for treatment are very moderate. There is a separate department for women. Adv.
